TANKS SMASH AT 6,000 CHINESE TRAPPED IN SHANGHAI, REMNANTS OF DEFENDERS RESOLVE TO FIGHT TO DEATH

LITVINOFF LEAVES BRUSSELS PARLEY; INTENTIONS VEILED

Departure May Mean Protest Against Possible Plan to Bar Russia From Mediation, or Move To Meet Anti-Red Action.

POTEMKIN STAYS AS SOVIET ENVOY

China Will Maintain Friendship With Moscow, Koo Declares; Hitler Lauds 'Triangle.'

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The abrupt departure of Maxim Litvinoff from the Brussels conference was seen tonight as meaning either or both of these things:

1. A protest against what Russia considered a Brussels maneuver to leave her out of any Chinese-Japanese mediation conferences while leaving Italy in.

2. A preliminary to a Soviet defense council on how to meet Italy's adherence to the German-Japanese anti-Comintern pact.

Litvinoff left Vladimir Potemkin, Russian ambassador to France, in charge of the Soviet delegation, but the fact that Russia still was represented did not lessen the belief that his sudden departure was significant.

Russia Protests.

Russia already has protested to Italy that her signature to the pact was "not friendly to the Soviets." She also has accused the Fascists of trying to isolate her in European action on Spanish non-intervention and undoubtedly expects the same tactics from Rome at the Brussels conference.

The Soviet's future intentions, however, were well veiled.

In Moscow the foreign office was completely non-committal and the public knew little of the new international developments because of a holiday cessation of newspaper publication.

Unofficially, Japanese spokesmen have made it clear they would exchange information only with signatories of the nine-power pact.

This would support the position of those who might want to keep Russia off the conciliation committee, for Russia is not a signatory of the treaty, which pledges respect for China's territorial integrity, but was invited to the Brussels conference because of her interests in the far east. Italy is a signatory.

Berlin Answered.

Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, China's representative at the conference, answered Berlin reports that China would be asked to join the anti-Comintern pact by saying his country would preserve her friendship with Soviet Russia. He said definitely China would not join any group of powers dominated by a particular philosophy.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler referred to the pact in an address in Munich on the 14th anniversary of the unsuccessful Nazi putsch of 1923. He listed among the accomplishments of his regime, the "establishment of a European axis" (Italy and Germany) and afterwards of a "world triangle."

"For the first time in the history of Germany," he said, "a central authority has been established possessing unrestricted power and scorning any attempts at being impeded or sabotaged."

JAPAN MAY RENOUNCE OR SEEK CHANGE IN PACT

TOKYO—(Wednesday)—Nov.10 (UP)—The powerful newspaper Nichi Nichi predicted today that Japan will renounce the nine-power treaty guaranteeing peace in China or propose its revision.

Such action, the newspaper said, would be simultaneous with Japan's reply to the second invitation for her to participate in the nine-power conference in Brussels.

Ramsay MacDonald Dies; 3 Times Premier of Britain

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Retired Laborite Aboard Ship at Sea.

LONDON, Nov. 9. — (AP) — J. Ramsay MacDonald, who rose through labor's ranks from Scottish poverty to become thrice Prime Minister of Great Britain, died unexpectedly tonight aboard a cruise ship bound for South America.

Dr. Alastair MacKinnon, MacDonald's son-in-law, received news by radio of the death of Britain's first labor Prime Minister.

The man who was born the son of a Scottish farmer and spurned an earldom only this year, died aboard the steamer Reina Del Pacifico, apparently of a heart attack.

Stricken Year Ago.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain received news of his death shortly after addressing the lord mayor's banquet in the Guildhall, the occasion at which only a year ago MacDonald suffered a sudden collapse.

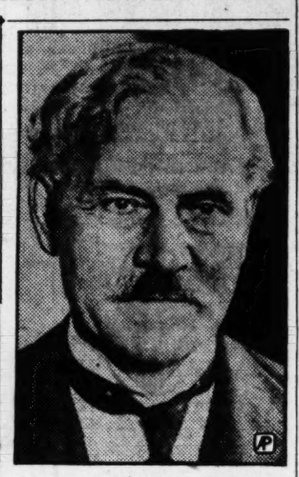

The body will be taken off the ship at Bermuda, where it is due November 15, and returned to England.

The 71-year-old former Prime Minister with his daughter, Shella, sailed last Thursday for South America in search of what he called "the most elusive of all forms of happiness—rest."

He had planned to visit Peru and Chile and "to return when I have had enough of it."

The day after he departed, his successor, Stanley Baldwin, now Earl Baldwin and also retired, paid tribute to MacDonald in a public address, saying "I never feel that Mr. MacDonald has had credit given him by the country due for services he rendered it in 1931 and in the years immediately succeeding."

In 1931 MacDonald formed his third government, a coalition cabinet said then to have been necessitated by a national emergency. Many of MacDonald's lifetime associates in the labor movement and in his first two labor governments broke with him, and he became bitterly hated by the labor party.

RAMSAY MACDONALD.

MacDonald resigned and turned over the premiership to Baldwin in 1935 after a critical depression period had strained his health.

His daughter, Ishbel, who accompanied her father to Washington in 1929 when he and President Hoover held their famous "log-sitting" conference at Rapidan, Va., said no arrangements had been made yet for the funeral.

MacDonald's visit to Hoover paved the way for the London naval conference in 1930 which resulted in the London naval treaty. He received a warm reception everywhere he went in America.

CHASTAIN ELECTED TO COUNTY BOARD BY BIG PLURALITY

Former Farm Agent Is Easy Winner, Sweeping All But Few Boxes To Obtain 4,616 Ballots to 4,983 for Opponents.

CRAIGHEAD SECOND WITH 1,497 VOTES

Complete Election Tabulation in Page 3.

Sweeping 22 of the county's 24 precincts outside the city of Atlanta and maintaining nearly that ratio inside the city, Troy G. Chastain, former Fulton county farm agent, was overwhelmingly elected to membership on the Fulton county commission in yesterday's special election.

Chastain obtained a near majority over the combined vote of the 13 opponents whose names appeared on the ballot. R. H. Everett obtaining scattered support despite his announcement of withdrawal last Saturday, which came too late to remove him from the ballot.

Craighead Second.

Edgar Craighead, well-known lawyer, finished second, and Dr. C. W. Childs, Bankhead avenue druggist and former member of city council, finished third.

9,599 Votes Cast.

Commissioner - elect Chastain lacked only 367 votes of obtaining a clearcut majority over the entire field. There were 9,599 votes counted. Chastain obtained 4,616 and the other candidates only 4,983.

Displaying widespread vote-getting popularity for a man who never before offered for an elective office, Chastain either carried every precinct in the county or finished high among the leaders. In several instances in the home precinct of a particular opponent the new commissioner found the going rather rough, but for the most part his opponents had to SHANGHAI, Wednesday, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Japanese, infuriated by their inability to drive out a "doomed battalion" of several thousand Chinese, today began to blast to bits the ancient native city of Nantao.

Terrified refugees including civilians, police and soldiers who ripped off their uniforms poured into Shanghai's foreign zone for safety.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10.—(Wednesday.) — (AP) — Japanese shock troops, supported by tanks and batteries of machine-guns, opened a spirited attack all along Zahwei creek this morning in an attempt to drive the last remaining Chinese forces from Shanghai.

Entrenched behind sand-bagged barricades in the Nantao native district bordering the French Concession, the Chinese, estimated at about 6,000 men were resolved to resist until death.

DR. RUFUS DORSEY DIES IN 65TH YEAR

By RALPH McGILL.

Dr. Rufus Thomas Dorsey died last night at his residence, 3426 Peachtree road, after an illness of one week. Physicians said death was due to a heart ailment. He was 64 years old.

Dr. Dorsey was a brother of Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, a former Governor of Georgia, and of Cam D. Dorsey, Atlanta attorney.

Dr. Dorsey's death ended a life rich in service to hundreds of Atlantans, a life which included many honors and much effort on behalf of his country and his city.

Served in Two Wars.

He had served his country in two wars and in his profession with distinction and honor. He was proudest, perhaps, not of his fine medical record as a physician and surgeon, but of his athletic days at Auburn, where he organized the first football team and scored the first touchdowns ever scored by Auburn on its traditional rivals, Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt, Georgia and Alabama.

It was an Auburn banquet, held in Atlanta on the evening of October 22, the evening before the Auburn-Tech game at Grant field, which saw his last public appearance.

He told of the stirring days in 1891 when he and a friend, Ellory Edwards, later an attorney in New York, met beneath a tree on the Auburn campus and formed the committee which purchased the first football—a round one.

First to Score.

He was the first intercollegiate football player to score a touchdown in the states of Georgia and Alabama. He played in the states' first game, the Georgia-Auburn game of 1892. He scored the touchdown by running 40 yards through the Georgia team. Auburn won, 10 to 0.

Dr. George Petrie, still a member of Auburn's faculty, who saw that first team and has seen all the others, names Dr. Dorsey as the greatest player in Auburn's football history.

Dr. Dorsey won every running race held during his days at Auburn. Many honors came to him in his profession, which he practiced actively until a few days before his death, but he liked best to talk of the football days when

Magda Barred From States; She'll Tell All

Journalist Appeals for Chance To Reveal Facts of 'Regrettable Episode.'

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Barred from this country on grounds of "moral turpitude," Magda de Fontanges appealed from Ellis Island tonight for an opportunity to tell Washington authorities all about the romantic interlude she said she had with Premier Benito Mussolini.

The svelte, red-haired French journalist, who came here to appear in a Broadway night club at $50 a week, was ordered excluded after a private hearing before a special board of inquiry headed by Rudolf Reimer, immigration commissioner.

The board announced it had decided against permitting Mme. de Fontanges to enter the country "because of an admission of a crime involving moral turpitude, to-wit: Assault with a dangerous weapon."

Convicted in Paris.

She was convicted in Paris last summer of shooting Count Charles Pineton de Chambrun, former French ambassador to Italy. At the time she testified he had broken up her "unforgettable hours of love with Mussolini."

She was not asked for further details, she said, and she would like to lay all the facts of the "regrettable episode" before the board of review at Washington.

Pending action by Washington authorities on her appeal, Commissioner Reimer said she would remain at Ellis Island with some 220 other immigrants whose entry permits have been found defective for one reason or another.

No Shawled Heads.

"She will not be kept with any shawl-headed immigrants breathing of garlic," he added, "because we don't have that type of immigrants any more."

Through an interpreter she said it was "the greatest surprise of my life" when her right to enter the country was challenged. She added that she hoped she would not be returned to France because the ocean trip had made her "so very sick."

The vivacious 30-year-old writer, who loved "my sweet Benito," seemed unperturbed when she was taken to the immigration station in upper New York harbor.

CASH FOR CONTROL OF CROPS SOUGHT

Roosevelt, in Conference With Aides, Finds Divided Opinion on Taxes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A quest for money to finance subsidies to farmers under a proposed new crop control program began in earnest today when President Roosevelt discussed taxes with other administration leaders.

Informed persons expressed belief the discussion touched on a plan to separate the crop adjustment bill and the revenue measure.

Expedite Bill.

Some legislators have advocated such a step, declaring that the separate treatment would expedite the control bill, and leave the controversial question on levying processing or other taxes to be threshed out later.

Those who conferred with the President included Secretaries Morgenthau and Wallace; Chairman Jones, Democrat, Texas, of the house agricultural committee, and Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee.

It has become increasingly evident that the senate and house agriculture committees are working at cross purposes on taxes.

Tentative Draft.

The house bill, a tentative draft of which Jones took with him to the White House, proposed excise, or processing taxes on major commodities. Senate farm leaders are standing by proposals of the last session to pay farm benefits from direct Treasury appropriations.

Senators Pope, Democrat, Idaho, and McGill, Democrat, Kansas, who conferred this afternoon with national farm leaders, insist that levies similar to processing taxes outlawed with the old AAA invite conflict with the supreme court's ruling.

"We are not absolutely opposed to processing taxes," Pope said, "but we believe that if they are used at all they should be provided in separate legislation. Let them be drawn up by the proper taxing authorities of congress."

Jones steadfastly has opposed separating the two. He proposed that taxes be provided under a special title in the farm bill.

END OF HAPEVILLE AS CITY IS SOUGHT

Petition To Revoke Charter Circulated by Group Charging High Taxes.

Petitions were being circulated in Hapeville yesterday asking the city council to add to the city election ballot December 7 a referendum on abolition of the city's charter and a return to the status of an unincorporated town.

A spokesman for the group sponsoring the petition said those backing the movement to surrender the charter included some of the largest taxpayers and most influential citizens of the city.

Cited Tax Plans.

"City council is preparing to ask for an increase in ad valorem taxes of from 15 to 17 1-2 mills and for permission to levy an unspecified sanitation tax," the spokesman said. "We do not feel that the increase in taxes is necessary or that we are now getting what we pay for."

The group is following the precedent established by the citizens of Buckhead. Buckhead, once an incorporated city, now is unincorporated.

Leaders of the Hapeville group said that they believed that the county board would take over the policing of the area and also would furnish fire protection in return for the city's waterworks and its annual net yield of approximately $15,000.

Widely Circulated.

Sponsors said the petition was being widely circulated and that is would be presented to the mayor and council shortly.

The petition said in part:

"We believe that by relieving our people of city taxes that we will experience a greater growth at one-half of the present cost of operation, citing to you the growth of Buckhead since it became a country district."

GRAND JURY TODAY MAPS BRIBE DRIVE

Special Session Will Study Evidence Turned Over by Recent Jurors.

Plans for an exhaustive drive to ferret out grafting law enforcement officials and racketeering combines operating in Atlanta will be mapped by the new Fulton county grand jury at a special session this morning.

The November-December grand jurors also will study evidence gathered by the past jury in its two-month lottery investigation and placed before the present body yesterday by a special committee from the "bug" investigation jury.

The session this morning, scheduled for 10 o'clock, will be an "organization" meeting, at which the jury will consolidate its forces to take up where the recent body left off, R. H. White Jr., foreman, said following a routine session yesterday.

Quiz Witnesses.

While the new jury prepared to take up the evidence it received yesterday, Assistant Solicitor E. E. Andrews continued questioning witnesses in connection with the graft investigation.

Evidence turned over by the special committee was said to concern actual instances of graft and bribes accepted by law enforcement agents which the past jury did not have time to investigate.

It was said a sworn statement to the effect that a "big shot" liquor dealer had paid $1,000 to two Fulton deputy sheriffs not to report a liquor "warehouse" in which he had stored several hundred cases of whisky was in the hands of Andrews.

Despite denial by the assistant solicitor that such a statement had been placed in his hands, the re-

TAX CHANGE SEEN ON CAPITAL GAINS

House Subcommittee Maps Plans for Amendment Act Is Assailed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Definite signs that the capital gains tax may be relaxed appeared today at a meeting of a house tax subcommittee.

Members and treasury experts were described as in tentative agreement on a principle, if not a method, of permitting a loss carryover for one or two years.

Business and financial circles have assailed the capital gains levy on grounds it discourages transactions in the securities market and impedes the flow of capital into productive enterprise. The tax is imposed on profits made on capital assets, including securities and real estate.

A loss carryover, committeemen said, probably would decrease returns from the levy. The treasury has been asked to determine how it would affect the yield.

If approved on a two-year basis, one tax expert said, it would work something like this:

A person who loses $10,000 on capital investments this year would be allowed to use it to offset any capital gains realized in 1938, or 1939. If the gains in the two years totaled $10,000, there would be no capital gains subject to tax.

If gains aggregated $15,000, only $5,000 of the total would enter into tax computations. If the gains amounted to only $7,000, the $3,000 net loss could not be carried over into 1940.

Woman Who Introduced Simpson To Wally Free To Wed Him Soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Tall, blue-eyed Ernest Simpson, former husband of the Duchess of Windsor, and the woman who introduced him to her will be married within a few weeks.

Shortly after Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray, long-time friend of both Simpson and the Duchess, obtained a Reno divorce today from Jacques A. L. Raffray, Simpson confirmed reports of the romance.

"Yes, we will be married," he said in the New York office of the shipping brokers' firm in which he is a London partner. "Not this week, but within a few weeks, very quietly."

Simpson was wearing a chalk-striped dark blue suit and smoking a cigar. He has brown hair that is slightly curly, a mustache and an infectious laugh.

Leaving an executives' meeting for a few minutes, he sat down in his office and read a dispatch from Reno.

"Isn't it a little early," he said, "to announce now we'll be married?

"But it is true. Those are our plans after the divorce."

He said that Mrs. Raffray would join him in New York; that the place of the wedding wasn't decided, and that they would leave shortly after the wedding to live in London.

Special Deputy Named For Formwalt Area

A special officer for the Formwalt district was deputized yesterday by Sheriff James I. Lowry, M. D. Cato, chairman of the civic club sponsoring a clean-up of the area, announced last night.

Cato reported that W. H. Sigers, formerly a special city officer, had been named by the sheriff to aid in wiping out crime conditions in the sections surrounding the Formwalt school. The club made an appeal to the police committee of city council to reappoint Sigers but the request was refused.

Duke to Visit U. S. After Christmas But Won't Study Industry, Housing

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, enthusiastically preparing to sail for New York immediately after Christmas, have abandoned all intentions of studying American industrial and housing conditions, English friends of the Duke said tonight.

Their tour, which will take them to Honolulu for a holiday after a few weeks in the United States, will be strictly a "pleasure visit." A French liner probably will be chosen for the Atlantic crossing instead of the German liner Bremen on which the couple had booked passage for last Saturday.

The Duke's decision to call off his scheduled study of industrial and working class conditions in the United States was reached after two days of consultation with American and British advisors. It will be officially announced within two weeks.

The reasons for the decision were twofold:

1—To prevent any new outburst of attacks by American labor organizations or individuals.

2—Because industrial inspection tours would be hampered by winter weather.

CHAMBERLAIN TELLS ITALY AND GERMANY OF FRIENDLY DESIRE

Premier Declares Discussion Rather Than Public Declamation Is Path.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain tonight voiced anew Britain's desire for better relations with Italy and Germany, but declared progress toward understanding could be achieved better "by informal discussion than by public declamation."

Chamberlain also praised the co-operation of the United States at the Brussels conference seeking to restore peace in the far east. He spoke at the lord mayor's banquet marking inauguration of Sir Harry Twyford.

German, Italian Listen.

Many members of the diplomatic corps, including the German and Italian ambassadors, were present to hear the Prime Minister deal in guarded language with the Rome-Berlin axis.

Of that axis, now strengthened by the new triple anti-Communist pact with Japan, Chamberlain said:

"As regards our relation with Germany and Italy, I will only say this: It is the sincere desire of his majesty's government to see those relations firmly established on a basis of mutual friendship and understanding.

"We believe that such understanding, which might have far-reaching effects in restoring confidence and security to Europe, can be more hopefully pursued by informal discussion than by public declamation."

Britain "Anxious."

Acknowledging that the world situation was causing Great Britain "anxiety," Chamberlan deplored the Spanish and Chinese-Japanese conflicts.

Of the troublesome Spanish war issue he said "perhaps the only satisfactory aspect" has been our close collaboration with France. His remark was interpreted as reassurance to the French that Anglo-French unity would not be disturbed by the plan to establish trade relations with Insurgent Spain.

F. D. R. AGAIN HITS NATIONS AT WAR

Thanksgiving Proclamation Hails Peace in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(UP) President Roosevelt used his annual Thanksgiving Day proclamation today as a medium to again call attention to chaotic conditions in other sections of the world and to reiterate that "we have no selfish designs against other nations."

The proclamation was carefully worded and, in effect, was a rebuke to those nations at war and those madly preparing for hostilities.

"A period unhappily marked in other parts of the world by strife and threats of war finds our people enjoying the blessings of peace," the chief executive said. "We have been fortunate in devoting our energies and our resources to constructive purposes and useful works. We have sought to fulfil our obligation to use our national heritage by common effort for the common good.

"Let us, therefore, on the day appointed (the last Thursday in November) forego our usual occupations and, in our accustomed places of worship, each in his own way, humbly acknowledge the mercy of God from whom comes every good and perfect gift."

FLUSH KIDNEYS OF POISONS AND STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

Live a Healthier, Happier, Longer Life

Thousands of men and women wonder why backache bothers them—why they have to visit the bathroom often at night—why flow is scanty and sometimes smarts and burns.

Any one of these symptoms means that your kidneys and bladder need attention now before these minor symptoms develop into serious trouble.

To flush out waste poisons and acid from kidneys, soothe your irritated bladder and put healthy activity into them, get a 35-cent package of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Capsules and take as directed.

This harmless, tried and true medicine always works—you'll feel better in a few days, as the supremely effective diuretic and kidney stimulant drives excess uric acid from the body which is often the aggravation of joint agony, sciatica and neuritis.

2 Arrested in Eavesdropping Over Secret Line.

PARIS, Wednesday, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Police today arrested two men in a bizarre spy plot against Alexander Kerensky, provisional premier of Russia in 1917 and a bitter anti-Communist.

The men are Raphael Bonneveniste, 31, and Raphael Biquard, 54, successive tenants of an apartment from which a secret telephone line was discovered to have led to an apartment rented by Elie Fondemansky, 57, contributor to Kerensky's newspaper, "New Russia."

Police said the line was to permit the men to listen in on conversations of Kerensky's private secretary, Michael Zenzinov.

MAYOR LAUDS EMORY AS CIVIC CLUBS MEET

Emory University was host to more than 200 members of Atlanta and Decatur civic clubs at a "goodwill banquet" last night at the college dining hall.

Mayor Hartsfield made the principal speech, declaring "Emory and Atlanta are celebrating their anniversaries together this year. They have grown up together and the university is a great civic asset to Atlanta."

JACKIE COOGAN FILES NOTICE HE'LL MARRY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Jackie Coogan, who built a fortune on his characterization of a waif 17 years ago in Charlie Chaplin's picture, "The Kid," filed notice today of intention to wed.

As nearly everybody knows, the girl is 20-year-old Betty Grable, shapely blonde movie starlet. Coogan is 23.

Details of the wedding have not been arranged, but Jackie said they would be married maybe next Saturday, by a Catholic priest in the rectory of St. Brendan's church here.

Mother's Pleas Ignored, Man Plunges to Death

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The mother of Henry Gause, 36-year-old window cleaner, had been insisting daily for some time she said today that he replace the safety belt he had used for 15 years.

The belt broke today, dropping Gause from a fifth-story window of a downtown office building. He died several hours later of internal injuries.

JAPANESE ATTACK THIN CHINESE LINE

Sharp bursts of hand-grenades and machine-guns clearly traced the line of fighting along Zahwei creek toward the Whangpoo river.

A prelude to the Japanese assault came earlier when two land mines exploded in the Nanato section and were followed by the noisy chatter of machine-guns and rifles. The thunderous explosion of the mines shook houses over a wide area in the French Concession.

While the vanguard of Japanese troops moved into battle, Japanese warplanes roared overhead bombing clusters of stubborn Chinese defenders wherever they could be spotted.

The Japanese also reported capture of the important city of Sungkiang, 20 miles south of Shanghai on the Shanghai-Hangchow railroad, during the night.

Face Annihilation.

It appeared certain the last remnants of Chinese defenders in Shanghai must be annihilated if they made a last stand.

There was no avenue of escape except across the Whangpoo river or into the French area where they would be disarmed and interned.

Erect Barriers.

The Chinese soldiers, helped by coolies, worked feverishly by lamplight early this morning digging trenches and raising sandbag barriers. French officers, however, said they surely were doomed if they defied the overwhelming strength of the Japanese.

The withdrawal of Shanghai's defenders under cover of darkness last night toward their "winter line" protecting Nanking, China's capital, was not a vital blow to the nation's defenses, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek declared.

He said it would shift the war scene to the great delta lands of the lake region west of Shanghai where China has several strong lines reaching about 50 miles to Changshu, Kashing and Soochow.

Taiyuanfu Seized.

Japanese communiques from North China reported the fall of another city, Taiyuanfu, capital of Shansi province. The communiques said Japanese troops occupied the city, the fourth North China provincial capital to be occupied in the four monhs of the northern campaign, after 24 hours of bitter street fighting from which not one Chinese soldier escaped alive.

Japanese troops pressing in pursuit of the Chinese retreating from Shanghai rounded the corner of the French concession and passed the Siccawei cathedral along Siccawei creek, the dividing line between Nantao and the French area in western Shanghai.

The Chinese had dynamited and burned all bridges across the Zahwei creek in the path of the Japanese and had barricaded the far side.

Suspend Advance.

When darkness covered the city last night, the exultant Japanese wearily suspended their advance. Both forces appeared fatigued by the 88 days of incessant battle during which the Chinese held out against the combined army, navy and air strength of Japan.

Jubilant Japanese civilians, however, rushed across the Siccawei creek bridge into the French concession shouting "Banzai!" and waving Rising Sun banners. They hoisted the Japanese flag over the Chinese Bureau of Foreign Affairs and other Chinese government buildings.

The situation left Shanghai isolated from the rest of the nation. A circle of Japanese men and steel hemmed in 3,000,000 Chinese inhabitants, 1,000,000 Chinese refugees and thousands of American and other foreigners.

The port no longer was serviceable for military purposes. Only a few foreign and Japanese vessels connected Shanghai with the outside world. Railroads and highways inland from Shanghai were cut or blocked by the Japanese in all directions.

The Japanese communique announcing the capture of Taiyuanfu said an unknown number of soldiers from two Shansi divisions, the 73d and 84th, died fighting rather than surrender.

Trapped, Wiped Out.

The report said Japanese troops entered the city after it had been almost surrounded, shutting off virtually any escape by its defenders.

"Nowhere in China have we encountered such obstinate resistance as in Shansi," a Japanese spokesman acknowledged.

Three other provincial seats—the capitals of Hopeh, Chahar and Suiyuan provinces—already have fallen to the Japanese legions in four months of the conquest of North China.

Three Atlanta women will make "Poppy Day" appeals to the public in three broadcasts today.

Mrs. Kenneth R. Murrell, president of Auxiliary Unit No. 1 of the American Legion, will speak at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon over station WGST. Her subject will be "Armistice Day, Lest We Forget." At the conclusion of her address, Garnet Trotter will sing in memory of World War heroes.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, co-chairman and past president of Unit No. 1, will speak at 3:30 o'clock over station WSB. She will speak on "The Trip Through Flanders Field."

At 7:05 o'clock tonight Mrs. Fred Scheer will discuss the poppies made by the veterans in an address over station WATL.

All three women will be introduced by Mrs. W. F. Melton, poppy chairman and member of auxiliary unit.

U. S. JAPANESE AID CHINESE ON COAST

Set Up Soup Kitchens as 80 Homes Burn.

WALNUT GROVE, Cal., Nov. 9. (AP)—At least four residents of the Chinatown section perished today in a windswept fire which destroyed from 80 to 100 of the district's flimsy buildings.

Estimates of the loss ranged from $150,000 to $250,000.

LONGINO DEMANDS VOTE 'RING' PROBE

Commissioner Requests Starr Peck, Candidate, Be Recalled by Grand Jurors.

County Commissioner George F. Longino called upon the Fulton county grand jury yesterday to "thoroughly investigate" charges that a county political "ring" sought to influence votes of county employes in the election of a county commissioner yesterday.

Longino appeared before the grand jury yesterday afternoon and demanded that Starr Peck, one of the candidates, be called back before the jury and asked to name the persons in the courthouse who informed him "pressure" was being brought to bear upon them.

Appeared Friday.

The grand jury Friday called Peck in as a result of his repeated charges that a "ring," getting its orders from the county commission, was seeking to force county employes to vote for a selected candidate.

Longino's appearance yesterday followed a radio talk Monday night by Peck in which he accused Longino of being a "dictator" and at the head of the county "ring."

"If there is any intimidation at the courthouse, I want to know about it," Longino said after appearing before the jury.

Asked To Be Excused.

He said that he had asked the jury to recall Peck and demand that he "lay his cards on the table." It was understood that Peck had asked to be excused from revealing sources of his information on his appearance Friday.

"I told them that there is no county 'ring' and that I have had no part in such an organization," Longino said, adding that he knew of no attempts to influence anyone's vote in the courthouse or among other county employes.

'Ounce' of Prevention Nearly Proves Fatal

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The ounce of prevention—it weighed many pounds—proved nearly fatal tonight to Maine Burak, 42.

Bufak napped on an East river pier after roping himself to a large rock as a precaution against falling into the water. He fell anyway, and the rock with him, effectively anchoring him to the river bottom. Passersby rescued him.

LOYALIST FORCES HALT REBEL DRIVE

Insurgents Admit Advance Slowed Up by Thrust; Some Gains Reported.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Insurgent officers reported tonight sharp counter thrusts by government forces were impeding the drive of Generalissimo Franco's troops in northern Spain.

They said the dogged government defenders were holding a number of "important points" which must be "cleaned up" before the start of any decisive Insurgent drive against Catalonia.

The Insurgent advices said Franco's fighters gained control of the entire valley of the Gallego river in northeast Spain.

CATALONIA REFUSES CHIEF'S RESIGNATION

BARCELONA, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Catalan parliament today refused to accept the resignation of President Luis Companys and re-elected him chief executive of autonomous Catalonia, close ally of the Madrid-Barcelona regime.

A resolution, approved by a vote of 45 to 1, declined Companys' resignation because of "the extraordinary circumstances in Spain and the historical duty imposed upon him."

From Burlesque To Barony, Trail Of American Girl

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—From burlesque to a barony, from ogles to orchids—that's the story of Rosezell Rowland, the "golden girl" of the Irving Place theater, disclosed today as the bride of Baron Jean Empain, Belgian financier.

They were married last Thursday in Budapest, the baroness' mother, Mrs. Alvah B. Rowland, formerly of Columbus, Ohio, was informed by cable.

Five years ago Rosezell, then 17 and one of the neatest eyefuls ever to step out on a burlesque stage, took a $3-a-day job at the Irving Place theater, appearing at matinees and nightly in a garb of golden paint.

Mrs. Rowland said today the baron was very wealthy, owned homes in London, Brussels and Egypt, a yacht, a racing stable and a private plane, and was a director in 80 companies.

The baroness has three sisters—Lorraine, who is married and lives in Columbus; Betty Jane, a dancer, and Diane, a night club performer.

ATLANTA DP FIRST

Let's talk turkey

Well, it is almost Thanksgiving, isn't it? When we look forward we see Thanksgiving and Christmas. In fact, whenever we look ahead, the future holds possibility of excitement just as turning the next corner always holds the promise of something new or beautiful.

If you look back over your shoulder, you can't see where you are going. If you stand still the world will pass you by. Some people — like some stores, are looking back—others are standing still—others move with the crowd. But a few move a little faster. Davison's is moving a little faster than the crowd. Comparison with the Federal Reserve figures published monthly on retail business shows Davison's to be growing faster than the other stores in this district.

That means just one thing. Every day in every way, we are getting bigger and better—thanks to you.

10 TERRORISTS SHOT IN PLOT ON STALIN

5 Grain Spoilers, 2 Farm Raiders Also Killed in Soviet Purge.

MOSCOW, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Seventeen men were reported shot today, including 10 confessed terrorists convicted of plotting an attempt to assassinate Joseph Stalin, general secretary of the Communist party.

A Tiflis newspaper reported those shot for the assassination plots were accused of taking orders from an alleged Trotskyist center in Moscow. It said they confessed several unsuccessful attempts to kill Stalin in 1933 and 1935.

Two of those shot were brothers of the late Nestor Lakoba, a former president of the Abkhazian republic. One, of them, Mikhail Lakoba, served as a bodyguard of Leon Trotsky when he spent vacations in Abkhazia before his exile.

The purpose of the plots, it was said, was to separate Abkhazia from the Soviet union.

In addition to the 10 put to death for the plots, others reported shot included four convicted of grain spoiling in Tadjikistan, another in Turkmenistan, and two convicted of raiding collective farms in Uzbekistan.

CHASTAIN SWAMPS OPPONENTS IN RACE

First Ward Precinct.

The new commissioner lost precinct E of the first ward by five votes, but carried the others without difficulty. He annexed both precincts in the second ward.

In the third ward, Craighead won in two precincts, Dr. Childs two and the winner the remainder. The fourth ward went solidly for Chastain, although in precinct A Craighead made a race of it, Chastain winning 136 to 113.

The fifth ward, with the exception of one precinct, likewise went to Chastain, Craighead winning precinct F by 10 votes. Chastain took all five precincts of the sixth ward.

As some observers had anticipated, Chastain got the largest percentage of the vote in the areas outside the city of Atlanta although the city fell in with the sweep. As county agent and since his retirement from that office Chastain made and has kept hundreds of contacts with farmers and small businessmen outside the city limits.

Pledges Service.

"I am naturally very happy over the vote of confidence given me by the people of Fulton county," the new commissioner said. "I will try to make a good commissioner. I think that I fully realize the needs of the county and with the help of other members of the members of the board I will try to supply those needs."

Craighead, the runnerup, was among the first to congratulate the new commissioner.

"Mr. Chastain has scored a remarkable victory," Craighead said. "I congratulate him and I congratulate the voters of Fulton county. Also I want to thank all of my opponents for the clean races they ran. I hope I may be pardoned for borrowing a slogan from one of Atlanta's best-known citizens, 'surely its a beautiful world.'"

Craighead also thanked the press of the city for what he considered its fairness in presenting issues of the campaign.

Although they did not actively campaign in his support, Commissioners George Longino and J. A. Ragsdale had announced that they would support Chastain. The new commissioner carried College Park, Longino's home, without difficulty and had a large plurality in East Point, Ragsdale's home.

In the incorporated cities of the county, outside of Atlanta, Chastain had an easy time, although in East Point Craighead polled a sizeable vote. However from Roswell to Fairburn the result was the same, the ex-county agent piling up huge majorities.

East Point provided the only indication of a contest. There Chastain marshalled 278 votes to 140 for Craighead. There were 63 other votes in the city, Dr. Childs getting 17, Peck 10, and the remainder scattered.

Hapeville Landslide.

Chastain swamped his opponents in Hapeville. He received 163 votes to 48 for the combined opposition. Craighead finished second with only 12 votes.

The new commissioner polled 68 out of a total of 88 cast in Fairburn. In this precinct Dr. Childs was second with 11 votes. Union City gave Commissioner-elect Chastain 74 of its 84 votes. Nine names on the ballot did not receive a single vote.

College Park gave Chastain 213 votes to 31 for Craighead, his nearest opponent. The combined votes of Chastain's opposition in College Park numbered 88. Fairburn gave the new commissioner 119 votes to 34 for the combined opposition. Craighead also finished second in this box with 12 votes.

Northern Strength.

In the northern end of the county Chastain showed the same measure of strength, annexing both Roswell and Alpharetta by large majorities. In Roswell he polled 150 votes out of 182 cast. Dutton finished second in the precinct with 13 votes. In Alpharetta, Commissioner-elect Chastain got 177 votes to 31 for his combined opponents. Second honors went to Johnson with 10 votes.

In the unincorporated areas outside of the city Chastain swept to a commanding lead which was tallied before the city precincts closed. Although the vote was light the new commissioner carried 22 of the 24 "country" boxes, including Buckhead. Dr. Childs, by carrying his home precinct of Center Hill, finished second in the rural areas. The only other box lost by Chastain outside corporate limits was Cook's, which went to Bettis.

Dr. Childs' total in the country districts was 405. Craighead finished third in these precincts with 121 votes.

The other "country" vote totals were:

Bettis, 107; Johnson, 105; Partridge, 86; Dutton, 56; Peck, 55; Mitcham, 41; Spratt, 32; Clark, 16; Sullivan, 7; Everett, 6, and Newman, 6. Everett had withdrawn.

The total vote of Chastain's combined opposition in the precincts outside the city limits was only 1,103 votes.

Vote Lineup.

In the Center Hill district, Dr. Childs obtained 325 of the total of 405 votes credited to him. Chastain polled 170 in the precinct. Bettis, who was fourth with 107 votes, obtained 86 of his total in Cook's district alone. In this precinct Chastain garnered 39. In Center Hill 10 other votes were divided, while in Cook's there were only 32 votes which did not go either to Bettis or Chastain.

Buckhead Vote Split.

Four candidates, Dutton, Partridge, Peck and Spratt, obtained half or nearly half of their total in the Buckhead precincts. Although he carried the box handsomely, Chastain fell a little short of obtaining a majority in Buckhead. He got 298 out of a total of 618 votes, a few shy of a majority.

In Goode's district, the former farm agent scored a "slam." He got all of the 29 ballots cast. He likewise swept Campbellton with 15 votes to none for his combined opponents. He got 35 out of 36 in Old Ninth and 40 out of 44 in Double Branch district.

George Starr Peck, who ran fourth, last night also thanked his supporters and congratulated Chastain on his victory.

Peck's statement follows:

"Those who voted having decisively elected Mr. Chastain, I congratulate him on his victory I tried to present to the people the unfairness of the influence given the commissioners by the salary fixing powers over county employes, but since such a small number were sufficiently interested to vote, I bow to their will, and thank my many friends for their loyal support."

HURRICANE HOUSE

By Bruce Henry

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Gil Ferris, young New York engineer, and April Conway, are in love, but she refuses him and, accompanying her Aunt Morinda Eggleston, follows his brother, Morton, to Miami. Mort dies following an exploration trip into the Everglades and Gil inherits his estate, including old rambling Hurricane House. At Miami Gil finds a strange situation. April believes Mort was murdered by men who sought a secret only he knew and is determined to solve the mystery of his death and learn the secret. Gil scoffs. Then appears Fortuna Ferris, claiming to be Mort's widow. April thinks she's an impostor. Friends of Fortuna, Walter Boorsma and "Giggles" Webster, become Gil's self-invited guests. Stephen, formerly Mort's negro servant, prevents Gil from turning over Mort's private papers to Damon Tennington, attorney for the estate. April flies to Nassau, where she is kidnaped by a Portuguese who tries to force from her Mori's secret by flogging her. Gil phones his criminologist friend, Ronald Alter, to come on from New York. Gil and Captain Worley, smuggler but friend of Mori, go to April's aid, but she is rescued by Bob Morrison, millionaire playboy. Aboard Morrison's yacht, on the way back to Miami, April overhears Gil tell Worley he can't marry her because she still loves Mort. She needs his help and decides to make him jealous through Bob. Gil informs her he is going to turn the estate over to Fortuna. She says she has as much right to it. They quarrel, Gil telling her she's wasting her love on a dead man. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XV.

One of the yacht's officers had noticed the craft, too, for Gil heard him call, "Small boat off the port side," and an aanswer from someone: "Halp speed. Looks as if he wants to talk to us."

Throb of the great ship's engines softened and she moved slowly, proudly, while the smaller boat shot rapidly toward her.

Gil recognized the figure in the prow of the boat when it was still some distance away, and leaped to the rail.

"Ronnie!" he muttered. "What is he up to, anyway? I told him in my radiogram we were on our way back."

Still, Ronnie Alter was addicted to doing the unusual, Gil mused. That was what made him one of the most interesting young men in New York. That, and the fact that he had pulled some truly remarkable jobs of amateur scientific crime deduction and had written a book on criminal psychology which had brought detectives from all over the world to his feet. Even the heads of the F. B. I. admitted Ronnie Alter knew more than any living man about the somewhat ugly thought processes of law breakers.

Ronnie always claimed it was a gift, and professed to be more than somewhat amused by his remarkable abilities. They had profited him little, which didn't matter, for he had been fortunate enough to have a father who never bought anything but great numbers of government bonds and had weathered the market crash nicely before passing on to a better world. With the not inconsiderable sum thus received, Ronnie made out well by investing at intervals in stogy enterprises which invariably paid off handsomely.

Thus, at 30, Ronnie was a comfortably fixed, slightly stout bachelor who evidently intended to remain unmarried, comfortable and stout the rest of his life. He had few vices, unless the smoking of monogrammed cigarets made especially for him in Egypt, could be construed as such. He played an excellent game of polo, danced passably well and could always be counted on to hold his own in a stiff game of contract or poker. Anxious mothers, seeking a "safe" extra man, considered him a gift from the gods, though he refused invitations almost as frequently as he accepted them.

"I still think so," Gil flared, "but you can't ignore a cold-blooded killing in your own back yard." He looked keenly at the other. "Who did it Ronnie?"

"You heard the police," Ronnie yawned. "They said it probably was another negro. Fight over a woman, or something. I gather that one dead nigger more or less down here doesn't call for any excitement."

Gil snorted. "I'm asking you who did it."

"Someone who isn't very strong," Ronnie said, thoughtfully, puffing on one of his omnipresent cigarets, "The force of the blow, or, rather lack of force, shows that. A woman, perhaps. Stephen and whoever it was killed him had been talking here, in the house. They tussled a little, then the servant succeeded in throwing the other out bodily. He went to see that the intruder didn't hang around so he followed, then turned his back, satisfied his opponent was thoroughly cowed. That was a mistake, and he died because of it."

"But the note . . . the one we found in his pocket, 'I knew too much?' "

"Sense of drama on the part of the killer, or a blind. That's a guess. This was a killing done in anger, by someone who never killed before. He or she became panicky, and may have tried in an amateurish way to throw investigators off the scent. But I've been known to be wrong."

Gil complained, "You don't seem very interested."

Gil growled, "Does that mean you are falling for this hokum April has been handing out?"

Ronnie walked to the window. "I've never butted into your affairs before, and you don't need to pay any attention to my notions now, unless you want to. But I'd like to have you stay here for a while, and let me stick around, too. There are some points I'd like to think about. The case, as you've outlined it, presents interesting aspects." He turned, smiling, "Besides, I find your brother's widow very charming, her friend Boorsma a fine camera study and his little gal chum most interestingly dumb. How about a house party for a while? It's near the end of the winter social season here, I'm told, and we can get in on the final whirl."

Gil could not help but show his amazement. "In other words, you've enlisted on April's side. You think Mort was murdered for some remarkable secret only he knew; you think the kidnaping of April was done by the same people who caused Mort to check out, and I'll bet my bottom dollar you've got some half-baked notion that Stephen's murder is part of the dark, sinister hooey!"

"Nothing of the sort," Ronnie yawned. "I simply like the climate, your guests and the prospects of losing a lot of money at McIntyre's place with that most sophisticated Sally Trent dogging my every bet."

Gil grunted, "A sweet job she did of writing you up, I must say: 'Modern Sherlock Holmes Probes Murder Here. Savant of Crime Investigates Mystery Death.' Phooie!"

A chuckle from the doorway punctuated his outburst.

"Live your own life," said Sally Trent, looking radiant, "And don't forget, even a hack writer has to eat."

"Welcome," cried Ronnie. "Things have been so peaceful around here I know you'd show up eventually. What's the mission today, an interview on how to murder your mother-in-law successfully?"

"There's an idea there," admitted Sally, throwing herself into a chair. "But I'm here for no reason at all, except I'm told whenever Ronald Alter is about, things happen. My job is to be on the sidelines when they do. Hate me, Mr. Ferris?"

"Not a chance," Gil grinned, in spite of himself. "Stay for dinner. It will be a terrible dinner, because we have two new servants and an untried cook. But as long as I seem to be running open house, one more or less won't matter, I suppose. What d'you think my chances are of getting a hotel license?"

Sally waggled a finger at him. "That's one of the things I came about. I want to know just who gets this house and the rest of the estate. Is Mrs. Ferris, your brother's widow, going to press a claim, or are you going to turn it over to her without litigation."

"A cocktail is indicated," said Ronnie quickly. "This is no time to talk business. I yearn to carry on, to make wassail, to be wicked and blatently bad this evening. After dinner I suppose, the rest of the house guests willing, that we all offer ourselves as suckers on the green baize altars of Bruno McIntyre's joint. I haven't been in a gambling hell since they closed a pinochle den on Vesey street."

Gil frowned. This was not the way he had planned things should go. The raucous night life of Miami and Miami Beach appealed little to him personally, and he knew that Ronnie ordinarily did not go in for that sort of thing. Yet he sensed that his friend had more serious considerations in his mind than his words indicated, and he nodded agreement.

With the same trust in Ronnie's judgment, he forebore objecting to Fortuna about the continued presence of Boorsma and "Giggles" in the house. That they had moved in, bag and baggage, apparently at Fortuna's invitation, was obvious, and he had intended changing that situation as soon as an opportunity presented itself.

Fortuna did essay a feeble explanation that evening before dinner.

"I did not think you would mind, Gilbert," she wheedled in her soft, oddly accented voice. "They are my friends, and they were staying at hotels. It seemed so unnecessary when we have such a great deal of room here. I gave Miss Webster the east room and put Walter in the south wing. When you get to know them better, you will like them as I do, I'm sure."

UNCLE RAY'S Corner

THE STREETS OF LONDON.

Going along the streets of London, a visitor notices many things. Traffic moves on the left side, as elsewhere in England. There are taxicabs of a queer-looking, old-fashioned kind. There are many small ("baby") cars, and some large ones, used by businessmen who drive back and forth to work. Hundreds of buses speed on their way, and bicycles mix with the larger vehicles.

An English bobby.

Bicycles are common in most parts of England. Women and children, as well as men, ride them. Sad to say, the death rate is high—hundreds of English cyclists are killed each year in traffic accidents.

Policemen stand at important corners, and give signals to motorists. They handle the traffic with great skill.

English policemen are known as "bobbies." The nickname was given in honor of Sir Robert Peel, who did fine work to build up the police force a century ago. For many years, they have been famed for their polite answers to questions asked of them by citizens, and by travelers from abroad. They still seem to be as polite as ever.

"Many of our bobbies are university graduates," an Englishman said to me. "They are honest, and cannot be bribed. A person who tried to bribe one of them would quickly be placed under arrest."

Walking to Trafalgar square, in the heart of London, I saw a great statue of Lord Nelson. Around it are statues of lions, said to have been molded from iron obtained by melting cannon.

At Trafalgar square I also saw a great number of pigeons. These birds are very tame, and will eat bread or other food which people hold in their hands. I observed one of them alight on the shoulder of a young woman.

If you ask a person how to reach a certain place, you are likely to get a reply something like this: "Walk to the bottom of this street. Then turn right and carry on about two minutes." To get to another place, you may be told to go to the "top" of the street—in other words, to the upper end.

Many London streets have queer names. I am thinking of such streets as Petticoat Lane, Haymarket, Threadneedle street, Birdcage walk and Pudding lane.

Pudding lane is in a part of London where there used to be many shops selling special things on each street. In the same district is Bread street, which at one time was a center for bakers and bread-sellers.

INCREASED INCOME FOR FARMER SEEN AS BUSINESS HOPE

Agriculture To Bring Most Money Since 1929, Fertilizer Official Says.

The farmer's increased purchasing power will soon end the present business recession, Charles J. Brand, executive secretary and treasurer of the National Fertilizer Association, forecast here yesterday.

Addressing several hundred delegates to the association's 13th annual southern convention in the Biltmore hotel, Brand said.

"It seems safe to view the phenomenon that we are witnessing as a recession that will not last long. Economists who have sometimes been right think that it is like the temporary period that we passed through in 1233, and that by the spring of 1938 this recession will be over.

Conditions Favorable.

"In my opinion, conditions are now very much more favorable fundamentally than they were in 1933, chiefly because agriculture is in so much better condition.

"Despite huge crops and lower unit prices, dollar income has continued to rise, and farmers in 1937 will receive the largest amount of cash for any year since 1929.

"There are some six and a half million farms populated with something like 32,000,000 people. They are going to spend this relatively good money income, estimated at $9,000,000,000.

Brand, who last summer attended the International Grasslands Conference at Aberystrwyth, Wales, also discussed briefly the soil conservation program for 1938; permanent agricultural adjustment legislation now being formulated; labor standards legisuation; regional planning legislation, and industrial activities along lines of fair trade practice and intelligent fertilizer consumption promotion.

W. T. Wright, of Norfolk, Va., president of the association, discussed future work and aims of the organization. He referred principally to public relations, merchandising and marketing, and educational work, following a brief review of the history of the organization.

Stabilizing Influences.

Wright cited the Robinson-Patman act and the Tydings resale price control law as stabilizing influences on the industry. He also announced that a series of district meetings will be held throughout the country soon, to discuss marketing methods under present federal regulations.

Billy B. Van, former Broadway musical comedy and vaudeville star and now a sales educationalist, spoke on "Salesmanship and Showmanship."

The convention, which opened Monday morning with a meeting of the board of directors, closes today, following discussions of industry problems.

H. R. Smalley, chief agronomist of the association, will lead the discussion on "Soil Conservation and Improvement." Mr. Smalley also attended the International Grasslands Conference last summer and recently toured Europe with other American agronomists, visiting experimental stations, particularly studying methods of improving pastures.

AFRICAN IMPORTS OF LINT INCREASE

Market for Georgia's Surplus Cotton Looms.

Georgia cotton growers may look to South Africa as a possible market for their surplus lint, as export of cotton piece goods to that country increased nearly four times during the first half of this year, W. H. Schroder, district manager of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, announced yesterday.

Sales of American cotton piece goods in South Africa increased from a quarter of a million to nearly a million yards during the first six months of 1936, as compared with the corresponding period a year ago, according to the figures.

The increase is largely due to the growing demand for quality denims used in the manufacture of work clothing, overalls, boiler suits and other such apparel for industrial workers, the report said.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR GEORGE W. POSEY

Funeral services for George W. Posey, of 583 Lawton street, S. W., who died Monday at his residence after a long illness, were held yesterday morning. The Rev. Luther Rumble and the Rev. Irby Henderson conducted the rites from the chapel of Harry G. Poole with burial following in Columbus, Ga.

Posey was a member of the Park Street Methodist church and was a Modern Woodman of the World.

Georgia Starts Drive for Cure Of Blind in State

Special work to rehabilitate crippled children and treat the curable blind was planned yesterday by Lamar Murdaugh, state director of public welfare.

Murdaugh proposed the use of funds allocated for social security benefits to carry out the program, and said the federal government has earmarked a fund in excess of $60,000 for Georgia crippled children. The fund will be released, he declared, as soon as the state can match it.

He said he will ask the special legislature this month to authorize use of as much of the $3,125,000 social security fund as practicable in the new fields, and will not seek a new appropriation.

Of the 543 blind persons receiving aid under the social security program, he said, at least 10 per cent can be cured by an operation "the cost of which is not excessive."

He said the move would be beneficial to the state "aside from the humanitarian aspects" in that it will enable the welfare department to restore sight to some blind persons, and "thus relieve the state of the necessity of giving them pensions."

He estimated there were between 8,000 and 10,000 crippled children in the state unable to obtain proper medical or surgical treatment, and said "unless their handicaps can be eliminated they will grow up wards of the state or some community in the state."

VISITING MINISTERS HEARD AT TABERNACLE

Meetings of the annual convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance for the Atlanta area are being held twice daily this week at the Atlanta Gospel Tabernacle, Inman Park.

Ministers and missionaries addressing the meetings include the Rev. E. J. Richards, of New York; the Rev. W. I. McGarvey, of Miami; the Rev. H. E. Lang, of South China, and the Rev. R. E. Bressler, of Iran (Persia). Meetings are held at 10 o'clock each morning and at 7:30 o'clock nightly. The convention will end with the Sunday night meeting.

WOMAN'S CLUB BAZAAR CROWNS QUEEN TODAY

I. Gloer Hailey will crown the queen at the annual bazar of the Atlanta Woman's Club at 9 o'clock tonight, Mrs. William McRae, chairman of the committee in charge, announced yesterday.

Elizabeth Fuller, of Washington Seminary, has been voted queen, and Maryjo Brownlee will be maid of honor. Twenty-one girls will be in the queen's court.

RAIL FREIGHT RATE INCREASES SOUGHT

Georgia Asked To Permit 10 Per Cent Boost on Intrastate Shipments.

Rail freight rate increases averaging 10 per cent on numerous commodities are being sought by railroads operating in Georgia from the State Public Service Commission.

The commission said the rates, applying to carload shipments in intrastate commerce only, would bring state schedules to approximately the same level authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to before effective November 15 on interstate shipments.

In their petition, the railroads cited the fact that the "emergency" rates of 1936 were no longer in existence under the ICC rules, and that the utilities were "sorely in need of increased revenue."

U.S. CHAMBER AIDE TALKS HERE TODAY

John O'Leary Will Discuss Business Conditions.

John W. O'Leary, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce executive committee, will speak at an Atlanta Chamber of Commerce forum luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

An executive and director of several large corporations, O'Leary will speak on "Business Conditions as I See Them." He has served as president of the National Metal Trade Association and the Machinery and Allied Products Institute.

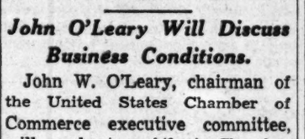

The Chamber of Commerce official was a member of President Woodrow Wilson's first industrial conference and was also a United States delegate to the world economic conference at Geneva in 1927.

RIVERS GOING ON AIR FOR PENSION SPEECH

A talk on "The Passing of the Poor House," dealing with Georgia's old-age pension program, will be broadcast by Governor Rivers at 8:30 o'clock Friday night over station WGST, it was announced last night.

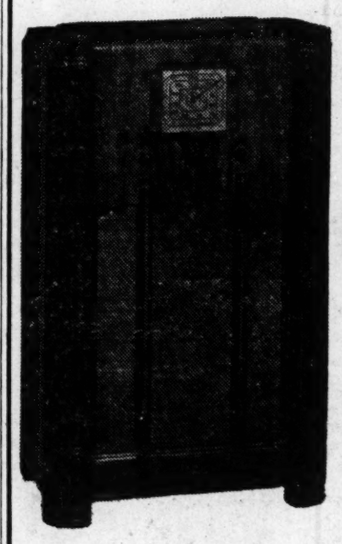

The broadcast will be a feature of the annual banquet of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. A small model of a poorhouse will be burned to dramatize the speech.

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 10, 1937.

TRIANGLE OR AXIS

In the days before the World War the rival groupings of the European powers were known as an alliance and an entente. The two constituted threatening armed camps which, in 1914, came to the inevitable explosion that resulted in the searing horror of four years of world conflict.

Today the same situation is rapidly shaping before the eyes of a world which seems powerless to stop the forces headed toward a new, and more devastating, war than that of two decades ago. This time the rival groups seem to be classified as a triangle and an axis. By whatever name they are called the danger is just as great and the clouds that are gathering over the world are just as dark.

The triangle is composed of Germany, Italy and Japan. They have formed an alliance, ostensibly as an anti-Communism movement, which bodes ominously for the advocates of peace. The declared objective, to block the spread of Communistic theories, is largely camouflage to conceal the real motives of war-like and greedy governments.

Opposing this triangle is the axis composed of Britain, France and Russia. Thus the two great European democracies are linked, strangely enough, with the Soviet of Communistic Russia.

It is unnecessary for Americans to delve too deeply into the differences between the rival European groups. Their theories and antagonisms should hold nothing save academic interest for this nation.

The United States has her own "sphere of influence" and we must, for the sake of the lives of our young men and women, attend strictly to our own affairs within that zone. That zone is the American continents. Protected east and west by wide oceans, America must look chiefly to her own portion of the globe and must leave "triangles," "axes," "ententes" or "alliances" of the Old World and the Orient strictly to their own fate.

There was never a time in the history of this nation when it needed, more vitally, to take to heart that ancient adage, "Mind your own business."

TO STUDY PAROLE FACTS

Governor Rivers has announced the personnel of a committee of judges and solicitors to study the Georgia parole law and its administration with a view to recommending desirable amendments to the statute to the coming session of the legislature.

The members of this committee comprise some of the outstanding leaders of the state bench and bar and their investigation and study of the parole system should result in evolvement of a plan largely free of the abuses which have rendered state paroles open to criticism in the past.

It has been conceded that the chief fault with the state paroles has been the system, rather than the law itself. Politics and favoritism have entered too much into the granting of paroles and there has been, undoubtedly, much injustice. The convict with friends and funds has been able to apply for parole and present a good case, while the friendless, penniless prisoner has, too often, been barred from a hearing.

The state has, also, been handicapped by lack of sufficient officers to supervise the released prisoners after they have won their freedom, with the result that Georgia, like the majority of the states, has turned loose too many congenital criminals to commit new crimes.

If Governor Rivers, the special committee and the legislature can remedy even a portion of the abuse that has crept into the Georgia parole system, they will have made a large contribution toward the reduction of crime in the state.

THE FERTILIZER MEN

There are few groups more closely linked with the business and agricultural interests of the south than the fertilizer industry. It is peculiarly fitting, therefore, that the National Fertilizer Association should, at this time, be holding its annual convention in Atlanta.

The problems of the fertilizer industry are vitally co-ordinated with the problems of this section, and the well-being of that industry depends, to large extent, upon the prosperity of the south, just as in turn the prosperity of the agricultural south depends upon the fertilizer interests.

Proper use of fertilizers is at the root of the farmer's success and without these soil-building products he cannot hope to operate at a profit for long.

It is, therefore, with very sincere meaning that Atlanta welcomes the fertilizer convention and there is genuine expression of friendship in the greetings extended by city and state.

Co-operation for mutual welfare between farmers and the fertilizer industry is essential to both, and out of the convention held here has come, undoubtedly, plans and formulae which will prove their wisdom in greater returns from southern crops in the years to come.

AN ANOMALOUS SITUATION

Obtaining a passport to visit a foreign country is an interesting event for an American citizen. It brings forcibly and sharply to his attention the fact his government is interested in his being an American.

It also causes him to think very definitely on the subject of nationality and the definition of an alien.

The man who is to go abroad finds it necessary to prove himself an American citizen. To do this he must produce a birth certificate. If he were born some years ago when birth was a matter of congratulation to the parents and of some interest to the immediate neighborhood, and of no interest at all to the county records, he is in a predicament. If his parents are living his predicament is not too serious. His mother is considered a material witness and all he has to do is produce an affidavit from his mother certifying to the fact he is her son. It must be sworn to before a notary.

If, however, he has lost his parents, his predicament is a bit more difficult. He must produce an affidavit or so from some old friends. The friends must be older than he and must be able to testify, under oath and seal, he is an American citizen and the person he claims to be.

These affidavits, together with the filling out of long forms, the signing of an oath of allegiance, and an oath not to take up arms for or against any foreign country, are signed and sworn to and sent off to a benign State Department.

With them, of course, goes his photograph. He is surprised to find they do not wish his fingerprints.

The American citizen, who traces his ancestry back for some years and who probably recalls visits to his grandfather and even great-grandparents, does all this without protest and with patience but with a sort of irritation hovering about him.

He keeps thinking that if he, an American citizen, must do all this to obtain permission to leave the shores of his own nation and visit those of another, how is it so many radical aliens, so many criminal aliens, are so freely permitted in his own country? He wonders why, it being so difficult for him to go on a brief and hard-earned tour, it apparently is so easy for undesirables of other nations to visit this country and foment trouble. He cannot quite understand, and may even feel quite dumb about it, why foreign labor agitators are permitted to remain in the country year after year. He is informed that, to visit other countries, he must obtain visas, must register with police or city officials, must at all times be prepared to identify himself as a law-abiding American on tour.

And so, he just wonders why there is objection to a census of aliens; why they are pampered and allowed to roam the nation unbridled, each bent on whatever he may wish.

He just wonders—and sighs. It's beyond him. He guesses there must be an answer.

And if there is one, he'd like to know it.

Columbia University now offers a course on how to understand a war—or, as they say in Tokyo, a peace.

Finding your car, after the football classic, is simple. You wait till the other 39,000 parkers are off the lot, and there it stands.

A weekly given over to world affairs has come out with one page a complete blank. Possibly a study of the parole system under Stalin.

Already a tentative all-America has been thrown together by a sports scribe, and reads like an army roll call in Spain.

They say the top in this year's Halloween masks was that one of John Q. Citizen, looking over the war headlines.

In many of the 1938 models the familiar gear shift lever is missing. However, we don't suppose the homegoing beer garden crowd will notice it.

SEEKING NEW CROPS FOR SOUTH.

(From The Florida Times-Union.)

A news story sent out of Washington by the North American Newspaper Alliance throws light upon research work carried on by the Department of Agriculture that is little known to the public. It is a work, incidentally, that is great in its importance to the south, for efforts are never-ending in the search for new crops that can be raised in this section of America.

It was under this program that the soybean was brought to America a few years ago to quickly take its place among the crops of value and importance.

Two expeditions of these experts have recently been sent to India and Turkey where vegetables form a large part of the diet of peoples who are restrained by their religion from eating meat.

In those countries the botanists will seek a succulent vegetable that may serve as a new crop for the south with the idea of providing a greater seasonal variety that will withstand the dry, warm climate of the southern summers.

Already several hundred bundles of strange, foreign vegetables have been sent back to the United States. From the plant quarantine stations, they have been sent to the Beltsville (Md.) Experimental Station for testing. About 40 per cent of the specimens are said to belong to the squash family. B. Y. Morrison, head of the division of foreign plant introduction of the Department of Agriculture, is quoted as saying that an exotic member of the squash or cucumber family may be forthcoming as the result of experiments under way.

In past years these roaming scientists have introduced American farmers to such profitable crops as Peruvian alfalfa, Pima cotton, Sudan grass and other crops that have added more than a hundred million dollars annually to their income. They have traversed Siberia, Mongolia, Indo-China, New Guinea, Turkestan, East Africa, Patagonia and other lands.

During the last year, the division of plant exploration and introduction reported introduction into this country of 5,000 new and valuable economic and ornamental plants that promise usefulness.

The results they have produced show that the Department of Agriculture is rendering a great service, despite the political handicaps attributed to it from time to time.

Their reward is found largely in the knowledge that they have done their job, and that mankind is the chief beneficiary. And after all that is a reward that is worthy of anyone's very best endeavors.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Fascism Marches On.

The German - Japanese - Italian anti-Communist pact has been finally signed by the Italians, who up to the last moment displayed considerable hesitation. Combined with the demonstrated reality of the Berlin-Rome axis, and the demonstrated aggression of Japan in China, it is impossible to shake off the realization that there is now an open bloc of Fascist nations, immediately fateful for two continents, and threatening to a third. The third is South America —the western hemisphere.

The bloc is financially and economically weak, according to usual standards. But it has other assets —completely mobilized peoples, totalitarian authority, and new weapons of agitation which it is ruthless and consequential in using. Whether these would prove to be assets in prolonged war against powerful nations with other sorts of organization is a question which we hope will not be tested. That they are assets in the present moment, it is unwise and sentimental to deny.

The German - Japanese - Italian agreement, with its supplementary protocol, openly introduces into international affairs the weapon of political agitation inside other countries. The three nations announce that they will fight Communism anywhere in the world, whether it immediately threatens them or not. Furthermore, Communism is not defined. It is well for the democratic countries to remember that according to the avowed philosophy of Fascism, liberal democracy is merely the forerunner of Communism, is itself incipient Communism, and any wavering of democracy, or any social unrest demonstrating itself under democracy, can be interpreted as a sign of Communism.

Thus, in Spain, according to Sir Norman Angel, the Germans and Italians saw a Communist menace before there was a single Communist or even Socialist in the Spanish cabinet. The German press has repeatedly seen a Communist movement in the Blum government in France, and has written about "red" waves sweeping England. At any moment that they choose to describe the United States under Mr. Roosevelt (or any one else) as "Communist," they can do so with quite as good argument.

Fascism is a world menace today. It is insanely optimistic to blink the fact. Three nations are out to create three world empires on the ruins of existing empires. Their intention is to use armed force only in a showdown, and when they use it, to see that their possible opponents are otherwise engaged. Japan strikes in China when England and France are tied up by Franco, Germany and Italy in Europe and the Mediterranean. Hitler's move into the Rhineland and Mussolini's into Ethiopia offset each other, dividing opposition.

These Fascist states seek, furthermore, to find allies inside the countries at whose cost their empires are to be erected. And find them! They find them among the rich, particularly the idle rich, the rentier classes, who are more afraid of their own working men than they are that their own nations shall lose power, prestige and possessions—and lose them to a more ruthless imperialism than their own!

The principal agitator in North Africa, amongst the French Arabs, are French Fascists, who stir up the natives against the Jews, in the interests of Italy. In England, the Fascist sympathizers a year ago moved very close to the British throne itself. Franco's original coup was assisted, at the very outset, by prominent Englishmen, moved by the Fascist ideology.

The Fascist International also assaults the Democratic world by trade policies, under which they force countries with a glut of raw materials and a limited market, to finance and equip them. Germany, in particular, is making what amounts to a capital levy upon her own clients and customers. That is what the system of Aski, or blocked marks, amounts to. On Friday the government of Colombia announced that under the new exchange control regulations, unrestricted purchases of foreign goods would be permitted only from Germany This, of course, makes Mr. Hull's trade agreement policy perfectly impossible. On Thursday, the Brazilian ambassador to the United States, Mr. Aranha, made an extraordinary speech at the National Foreign Trade convention in Cleveland. He said that Brazil is opposed to the Aski mark system of doing business and would stop that type of commerce with Germany entirely, if the United States would do the same, and that Brazil is trying to "lower the acquisitive power of Germany in Brazil."

But that acquisitive power is enormous, and is aided by the bribery of officials, and by the agitation of the huge colony of Germans who live in Brazil.

If Franco wins in Spain, the Fascist influence on South America, which derives its culture and ideology from Spain, will be prodigious. The German trade policy and the Italo-Spanish idea-war will work hand in hand. And the United States, we predict, will find it is not as isolated from the rest of the world as it thinks it is.

Meanwhile, nothing approaching even a united front is being opposed to this united Fascist aggrandizement. At the Brussels conference, England, France and the United States are discussing a possible settlement of the Japanese-Chinese war without the presence of, or any regard for, the greatest of all Asiatic powers: Russia—the only country which could perhaps be counted on really to take steps in China; the only country which has an army estimated at four hundred thousand in the Far East, equipped with munitions factories, barracks, air force, and materially independent of Moscow. Dispatches from China state that the inferior Japanese troops are in Shanghai, and that their best troops and munitions are mobilized facing Russia.

It is tragic that the world is so in the dark as to what the condition of Russia really is. We do know, unless the recent purge is to be completely discounted, that Fascist propaganda and penetration went a long way in Russia itself. We do not know whether to believe Mr. Duranty, who says that the purge has strengthened Stalin, or whether to believe other reporters who announce a considerable disintegration, nor do we know whether such disintegration as exists has affected the army.

Russia out of the picture certainly vastly strengthens the Fascist bloc. That is what the Fascist nations have been trying to achieve. The France-Soviet pact is the only protection for the small nations of eastern Europe against a possible German aggression. France is a long, long way from Czechoslovakia or Poland, or any of the nations of the Little Entente. For people who are genuinely anxious for peace all over the world, it is ridiculous to say that you can isolate 190,000,000 people! What the Germans, with the aid of their allies are doing, is what they accused others in the pre-1914 era of doing to them —they are completely encircling Russia.

In a world like this, one can only conclude that our domestic policy should be as cautious and realistic as possible. We must endeavor to achieve the greatest possible unity amongst ourselves. We cannot count on a revival of world trade to help us out of economic difficulties. We should cultivate amongst ourselves wisdom, co-operation, realism and courage. We shall need them all.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Footnotes To Headlines.

NEW YORK.—It is rumored that Great Britain is ready to accord General Franco belligerent rights on the presumption that the Insurgents will be in complete control of the Spanish peninsula early in 1938. Salamanca jubilates over the news and says: At last England recognizes the justice of our cause. If England does grant belligerent rights it will have nothing to do with justice. At present Germany is getting the total output of the Basque and Priff mines. This went formerly to Britain. At present England is running short of raw material for her armament campaign. She wants her share of Spanish minerals.

LaGuardia Victorious.

My return to New York from Europe coincided with the re-election of Mr. LaGuardia to the chief magistracy of the greatest city on earth. The campaign was a muddled one and a good deal of misrepresentation was indulged in. Among other things it was said and freely circulated by his opponent for municipal honors that the mayor was a Communist. Yet upon conceding the election Mr. Mahoney told newspapermen that he attributed his own defeat to the fact that Mr. LaGuardia's past administration had been "progressive, honest and clean," the very opposite of what he had maintained during the campaign. Strange morals!

French Military Budget.

For the coming year the French government is going to spend seven billion francs more for defense than was first anticipated. Most of the money will go into additional fortifications. What would be interesting to know is: When will the European states consider that they have sufficiently armed? Of course, the answer is never. They will go on piling up the burden on the people's backs until the strain becomes too great and there is a terrific explosion. They work for peace, 'tis said, they'll end up in war.

Tit For Tat.

A Parisian newspaper wired me today: Please indicate in 500 words who is to be the next President of the United States. I have had no time to think up a reply. But it will be something in the nature of that answer to the New York Evening World back in 1928. At that time the Associated Press carried a dispatch saying that American Catholics had presented the pope with a golden telephone. This led John H. Tennant, the managing editor, to cable me: "Go Rome stop ask pope call this office on telephone." The reply was: "Please ask Coolidge come your office to take the call."

Peace Talk In the Far East.

It does not seem that the Sino-Japanese war will be of long duration. Both sides seem to be willing to call quits. Japan has almost reached her objectives and must absorb first what she has conquered, an area half the size of the European continent. Far more serious news is that sent by Hallett Abend, of the New York Times, from China. He says the Japanese are concentrating a huge and formidable army on the Soviet borders. All of Nippon's best artillery and tanks and light cavalry is being massed there. Has the moment struck for the opening of hostilities between those two giants? Or it is just another maneuver of intimidation? Mr. Abend says that winter is the best time to fight in the far east, because creeks, swamps and rivers freeze up so solidly that the ice can bear the heaviest machinery. Was it not said that the Russians lay a railway over the frozen Baikal lake in 1905, at the time of the Russo-Japanese War?

Silhouettes

By RALPH T. JONES.

Tomorrow we pause
For a backward glance
To a day of peace
On the fields of France,
To an hour when guns
Held their feral breath,
When Mars called halt
To the gusts of death.

Dear God, may we pause
Again, in our pride,
To honor the wraiths

Mothers Should Read This.

In the issue of the Saturday Evening Post dated November 13 there is an article by Jack Ausland titled "The Last Kilometer." It is in the form of a diary, the diary of a soldier in the American army during the closing days of the World War.

And, if it is true, it reveals what is, probably, the most cruel happening in the entire history of the A. E. F.

It shows how, knowing that the Armistice was to be signed, that the war would be over in a few hours, American commanding officers nevertheless ordered an advance across a river and into woods filled with German artillery and machine guns, and thus sacrificed scores of young American lives merely to satisfy the military pride of a few men in authority and to prove, in actual battle, the accuracy of their strategy as worked out at headquarters in the rear.

What the General Told the Battalion.

After the firing had ceased, after Americans and Germans had fraternized in good companionship on November 12, 1918, the battalion was drawn up in hollow square. And the general arrived to address the men.

He congratulated them on the success of their attack and then said:

"I am very sorry that the Armistice has been signed. We are fighting men. We don't want to hike to the Rhine. We want to fight our way to the Rhine."

And when he had finished the general waited in vain for the applause that he evidently expected. The men, at parade rest, looked straight ahead. Even the officers were silent. Comments the writer:

"The second battalion had unanimously decided the general had said nothing for which applause was forthcoming."

That story is worth reading and worth remembering the next time you hear anyone arguing in favor of war.

It reveals, dramatically, the fact that, so long as military men are in power, human lives are of no moment save as statistics and "units" in that cruel game called battle, as it is devised on maps and worked out in blood and death in dirty trenches and among shell-torn scenes.

While All the World Rejoiced.

You get it, don't you?

While all the world went delirious with joy at the realization that Peace had, at last, come, the battle theorists expressed sorrow that the war was over because, forsooth, they preferred to fight—rather, to send other men to fight—their way to the Rhine.

The horror of it is enough to make decent people sick.

Men who had, within a few hours, struggled forward through mud under shrapnel and high explosive shells, listening in bitter silence to an officer who tells them he is sorry their Gethsemane is over!

Men who see, as the strutting little figure talks, a row of fresh graves, graves of their comrades who would be alive then if they had not died, while the Armistice was a known fact, to satisfy the vanity of a strategist in the safety of the rear zone.

It is a picture not pleasant for the mothers of those men to contemplate. A Gold Star Mother may console herself that her boy died for a worthy cause. But it is hard for her to find consolation in the thought he died merely to gratify the whim of a commanding officer.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Sunday, November 10, 1912:

"ELLIJAY, Ga., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—The most destructive fire in the history of the town of Ellijay, Gilmer county, raged from about 9:30 o'clock last night to 1 o'clock this morning. More than twenty buildings were burned."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Thursday, November 10, 1887:

"The Putnam county exhibit at the Piedmont Exposition is receiving a good deal of praise from northern papers who had correspondents here. Fred Mussey says it was the finest agricultural and domestic exhibit he has ever seen, and he has seen a good many."

They Always Hang Together if The Alternative is Hanging Separately

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When you discover what butters a man's bread, you can guess his principles.

This doesn't mean that he cynically sacrifices a principle to serve his interest; the thing that serves his interest automatically becomes his principle.

When this nation was new, it was controlled by solid citizens of New England who were called Federalists. Being men of property, the Federalists disliked and feared rough characters who had none.

When the Democrats got control, the Federalists thought their interests endangered and began to talk of secession. They even called a convention to plan it. The right of any state to quit the Union seemed to them a sacred principle.

The Democrats held control for years and then their party split and the Republicans won. Now the shoe was on the other foot. The Democrats thought their interests endangered and they promptly seceded. The right of a state to quit the Union had become their sacred principle.

For centuries the common people of Russia were held down and abused by cruel masters, and all of them learned to hate tyranny. They dreamed of a new Russia in which men should be free and equal; where the poorest could obtain justice; where every man could speak his thoughts without fear; where none could be deprived of life or liberty or property without a fair trial by his equals.

These were sacred principles for which the revolutionists dared to risk their lives.

Yet when they gained control and found their rule threatened by enemies, as the czars had, they established the bloodiest tyranny since the French Revolution. Every injustice and cruelty they had formerly denounced was now employed as a means of keeping themselves in power.

We hate the thing that injures us and approve the same thing when it benefits us. It isn't consistent, but it is human nature and there is nothing we can do about it. Self-interest makes right.

Since that is true, the only system that will insure permanent peace between nations and groups is one that benefits and protects the interests of all alike.

While one's gain is another's loss—while one fattens at another's expense—the loser will protest, and the gainer will preserve his advantage only at the cost of constant strife.

If ever men become wise enough to realize that the cost of maintaining an unfair advantage ultimately destroys the profit derived from it, they will prefer a system that is fair to all. And once that system is established it will endure, for every man's self-interest will support it.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

The South—a self-possessed and self-possessing region!

To be self-possessed, self-controlled, is at least as important as to be self-possessing. Norman Thomas, the Socialist party's leader, writes this column that he considers the present situation as regards the maintenance of civil liberties in the south is serious. He believes that the klan is reviving, points to a funeral said to have been held in public for one of its members in St. Petersburg, Fla., the other day, and is hoping that the La Follette committe can be persuaded to conduct an investigation "analagous to the successful work done by that committee in the case of Harlan county, Kentucky."

Preservation of civil liberties is a cause in which Socialists may well be allied with Democrats, Republicans and plain, ordinary patriots. The bill of rights under which these liberties are guaranteed is the most precious part of the selfsame constitution of the United States which some of our leading southern men and women have been engaged of late in saving. Unless they are willing to engage themselves now in preserving these liberties they convict themselves as ignorant or insincere in their recent efforts for "saving of the constitution." Southern city officials who have been flouting these civil rights and boasting of it, with the applause of some of their leading citizens, and even of newspapers, have only themselves to blame if a federal investigation results.

It is a hateful thing to have a federal committee poking its inquisitorial and little-understanding nose into the affairs of our southern cities and states. It ought to be declared unconstitutional or something. But those who are accused of destroying the most precious thing in the constitution can't very well hide behind the constitution when the federal government goes for them. The south's only proper or possible answer to the threat of federal investigations is to police itself, to invoke both public opinion and the law against those (including the law's own officers) who boast of civil liberties they deny negroes, Communists, labor leaders, or outsiders they don't like.

Here is a cause which, surely, will enlist those sincere and well-established southerners who joined the late Liberty League to save American liberties. Here is a cause, which more surely, should enlist those devoted women who organized themselves a few months ago to save the constitution against the President's supreme court plan. We, for one, honestly believe that it is only necessary to remind these people that the thing they fought for is again at stake to have them come loyally to the defense of even those who may be hateful to them for liberty's sake, and the constitution's.

And for the south's sake. Mr. Thomas is mistaken, in our opinion, in his fear that the klan can and will be revived. Recent events have made it too plain that the organization has come to be looked upon everywhere now as a disgraceful, un-American, intolerable thing. It may have been just as disgraceful a dozen years ago but many perfectly good citizens joined it then without thinking or understanding or knowing what it was really all about. These will not join again. They see now that the whole country looks upon membership in the klan as a sin against decency and patriotism. The klan cannot and will not be revived, in our opinion. But the klan spirit may, the spirit of taking the law into one's own hands to maintain something you have decided is righteous, the spirit of persecution in the name of the Lord, the spirit of the vigilante.

What needs to be fought in the south now is not the klan, for it is discredited and dead, but the klan spirit. Not those who may thoughtlessly or for expediency's sake once have joined the klan but those who, with or without having been members, are today dishonoring the constitutional civil liberties of their fellow men so shamefully that there is this talk of a federal investigation.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

NATURE'S SUPERLATIVES.

Beau Hudson and I were the guests of the Homer Allens for a day's fishing on the lake at Blue Ridge, Ga., last Wednesday. And when I say the Homer Allens I mean to begin with Brown, their 11-year-old son. Brown likes to go fishing, provided he can be in the boat with the lunch baskets. That boy did every sort of fishing that might be suggested by Izaak Walton in person, and all the while he was deftly fingering out a sandwich or a cake or an apple, and even now and then sampling the hot jug of coffee. As we rode the wind-lashed waves that afternoon on our way to the landing, Brown said to me, "I'll be glad when I get home so I can get me some sure-enough food."

Never shall I forget that day on the blue waters of that beautiful lake atop the Blue Ridge mountains. The autumn tones of the mountain sides were everywhere mirroring themselves in the shimmering water. The purple and orange and red and yellow colors of the leaves seemed more beautiful than ever as they were seen from the lake. In any direction one might look there was a perfect picture. The tinted clouds with their blue background seemed to be a part of the lake, forming one perfect gazing crystal of God's handiwork.

U. S. READY TO ACT FOR HAITIAN PEACE IN BORDER DISPUTE

Guidance May Be Offered in Difficulties on Dominican Frontier.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The United States government indicated today that it stands ready to offer guidance, if necessary, to preserve peace on the troubled island of Hispaniola.

Georges Leger, foreign minister of Haiti, which shares the island in the West Indies with the Dominican Republic, came to Washington declaring that between 3,000 and 5,000 of his countrymen had been killed in Dominican territory since October 5.

"We insist," he told reporters, "on full reparations for the victims, and on punishment of those responsible."

Dominican officials here previously had contended there were very few casualties in the clashes, which were reported to have been caused primarily by Dominican resentment at a heavy influx of Haitians seeking work. The Haitians, it is said, have been crossing the border because of overcrowding in their own country.

The Haitian cabinet minister went this morning to see Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, and afterward to tea with President Roosevelt.

Both visits were described officially as purely social, having nothing to do with the border troubles.

At press conferences, however, the President and Welles both expressed hope that the dispute would be settled amicably.

Welles said he hoped that direct negotiations between the two countries would be successful, but he also asserted the United States government's right to offer guidance whenever the peace of the American continent appears to be threatened.

Boy Killed in Game Of 'Cops, Robbers'

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A 7-year-old boy died today—victim of a schoolboys' game of "cops and robbers."

A truck killed Martin Olsen—the "badman"—as he lay in a gutter straining to free himself from ankle bonds and toy handcuffs.

Special Officer Cashman said a 14-year-old playmate, who disappeared after the accident, returned tonight and told how the Olsen boy, left trussed up on the sidewalk, rolled into the gutter and attempted to break loose.

GEORGIA OBSERVES U. S. 'CHEESE WEEK'

Rivers Urges Increased Use of Products Made by State's Dairies.

With Governor and Mrs. Rivers personally leading the observance, Georgia this week is joining the rest of the nation in the celebration of "National Cheese Week," during which special attention is being called to cheese products all over the country.

The Governor issued a formal proclamation setting this week aside for the observance, while Mrs. Rivers said she planned to serve cheese at least once a day at the executive mansion.

"The manufacture of cheese from Georgia dairy products already has done much to help the state," Mrs. Rivers said.

In his proclamation, the Governor said:

Whereas: For the fifth consecutive year the dairy states of the nation celebrate the observance of National Cheese Week, and

Whereas: The production and distribution of cheese has advanced rapidly in Georgia during the past decade until today our state is fast becoming a leading cheese producing and distributing state, and

Whereas: The economic importance of the dairy industry of our state will be greatly increased by the increased consumption of Georgia-made cheese, and

Whereas: Continued expansion of the industry, and a real appreciation on the part of consumers of cheese in the everyday diet are important factors in building the dairy industry in Georgia to greater heights,

Now Therefore, I, E. D. Rivers, Governor of the state of Georgia, do hereby proclaim and set aside the week of November 7 to 14, as National Cheese Week.

And call upon the citizens of Georgia to demonstrate their interest in and support of the dairy farmers of the state by increasing the consumption of Georgia-made cheese during the National Cheese Week.

Given under my hand and the seal of the executive department, this November 3, 1937.

Talmudic Tales

By DAVID MORANTZ.

(Based upon the ancient legends and philosophy found in the Talmud and folk-lore of the Jewish people. From time to time David Morantz will also answer in this column questions he has been asked on the religion, customs, ceremonies, institutions, etcetera, of the Jews.)

PEARLS OF WISDOM.

"Look first at thy neighbors," says the Talmud, "before buying the house."

"Never enter a house, not even your own, without knocking or giving some indication of your coming."

"Man in prosperity often forgets the promises made when in distress, just as a man in health often forgets the promises made in sickness."

"Love him who rebukes you rather than him who flatters you."

"Men are never so easily deceived as when they are plotting to deceive others."

"Little coin, little care, much coin, much care."

An attractive 195-page autographed gift volume containing 128 of the Talmudic Tales and 500 Pearls of Wisdom may be ordered from The Constitution, $1.50 postpaid.

Governor Opens Georgia's "Cheese Week"

"With this knife I now proclaim" might have been the words of Governor Rivers as he cut into a huge piece of cheese to open Georgia's observance of "National Cheese Week," aimed at increasing consumption of the state's dairy products. The week's observance continues until November 14. E. P. Moore is with Governor Rivers.

BOARD ASKS PLAN FOR NEW SCHOOLS

Education Body Orders Survey of Needs for Meeting November 29.

A plan for financing a school building program to eliminate portables and erect two new junior high schools will be drawn up by the building and grounds committee and the school administration, the board of education decided yesterday.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent, his staff and the committee are to make a survey of actual school needs and deliver a report, including the financial plan, to the board at a special meeting Monday, November 29.

Brewer Seeks Election.

Ernest Brewer, board member, sought to place the board on record yesterday as favoring an election on a bond issue, but board members refused a definite stand on methods of financing.

His resolution to declare the board willing to submit a bond issue to the public for approval or disapproval was amended, upon motion of Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, to include "or some practical means of financing" the project.

Brewer advocates a $3,000,000 bond issue to eliminate portables at Tech High, Boys' High, Murphy Junior High, Maddox Junior High, basement classrooms in elementary schools, and the erection of new junior high schools in Morningside and the Capitol View-Sylvan Hills sections.

Wants More Clerks.

Dr. Sutton yesterday recommended employing five additional clerks to aid school principals in making out required reports. No action was taken except to authorize him to place the $6,100 necessary in the 1938 budget as a "tentative item."

The board voted to assign $30,000 to elementary schools and $40,000 to high schools for new textbooks and audio-visual equipment and materials for 1938 and 1939, the money being a part of the $103,000 paid Atlanta for its schoolbooks in the free textbook program.

Dr. H. J. Penn, chairman of the finance committee, reported the school anticipations for the year were $3,423,658, and that $2,707,734 had been expended as of October 1. The department has a balance of approximately $700,000 for the remaining two months of the year.

SEVEN JUSTICES SIT ON ALUMINUM CASE

Hughes, Stone Disqualify Selves; Jackson Charges 100 Per Cent Monopoly.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A seven-justice supreme court will decide whether the Department of Justice can proceed with its suit in a New York federal court in an effort to dissolve the Aluminum Company of America.

Two members of the court—Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Stone — disqualified themselves from sitting today during arguments on the controversy.

Charles Evans Hughes Jr., son of the chief justice, has been connected with the aluminum company. Justice Stone, as attorney general in the Coolidge cabinet, was in charge of proceedings involving the concern. Justice frequently decline to sit during argument of cases in which they might be suspected of prejudice.

William Watson Smith, aluminum company attorney, argued today that if any proceedings were necessary they should be brought in the federal district court at Pittsburgh where a consent decree against the company was entered in 1912.

"The government cannot put us to the peril of two decrees in separate courts," he asserted.

Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, told the court the company had a 100 per cent monopoly of virgin aluminum manufactured in the United States.

He added that, by raising prices, it had contributed toward retarding business recovery early this year. The price increases, he said, made housing construction more costly.

MRS. W. J. SUTTON DIES; RITES TODAY

Funeral Services To Be Held in Berea Cemetery.

Mrs. Willie J. Sutton, 73, died yesterday in a private hospital after an illness of several years. She lived at 1053 Euclid avenue.

She is survived by a niece, Mrs. H. E. Lyndon, of Atlanta, and a nephew, Byron Hawkins, of Hampton, Ga.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the graveside in Berea cemetery, with H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

A PULLIAM STREET RESIDENT SPEAKS

Mrs. G. P. Reid, 860 Pulliam St., Tells of Tests She Has Made.

"Last spring," said Mrs. Reid last Thursday, "I had a bad cold followed by a terrible cough. I tried everything for it I had ever heard of, but got no relief. A friend of mine told me about Mentho-Mulsion. However, before trying Mentho-Mulsion I went to my druggist, Mr. Parker, of Parker's Pharmacy, and asked him about it. He showed me that the formula was printed right on every bottle, and that there was nothing in it that could be harmful in any way.

"I then decided to give Mentho-Mulsion a trial, and the reason that I have bought seven bottles of Mentho-Mulsion since last April is that it cured me and then my son, 24 years old, developed a persistent cough and I got a bottle for him and it fixed him up all right. Later I got another bottle for my husband, and he thinks it is just about the grandest cough medicine in the world. I have bought four other bottles and given them to friends of mine, and they all were cured by it and are as enthusiastic about it as I am."—(adv.)

9 OF 31 SHIP LINES GET U. S. APPROVAL

Only Three Fully Ready To Take U. S. Subsidy Under Revised Program.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Maritime Commission said today only nine of the 31 steamship companies subsidized under the old ocean mail contract system were "reasonably certain" of continuing under the new subsidy program.

Three companies—Ocean Steamship Company, Grace Line, Inc., and Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc.—have "sufficient financial strength," the commission said, "to insure successful operation for an indefinite period."

Six others, it added, "are expected to continue to operate successfully under the act and to carry out a conservative building program, barring catastrophic losses caused by strikes or other disturbances," upon completion of contemplated adjustments.

Six Rank High.

These the commission, in its economic survey of the American Merchant Marine, listed as:

American South African Line, Inc.; Export S. S. Corporation; Mississippi Shipping Company, Inc.; Lykes Brothers—Ripley S. S. Company, Inc.; New York & Cuba Mail S. S. Company, and United States Lines Company.

Of the remaining 22 mail contract lines, four may be able to participate in the subsidy program later, the commission said, provided foreign-flag affiliations and other restrictions imposed by congress in the merchant marine act are waived. Companies in this category were identified as United Fruit, Waterman S. S. Corporation, American West African Line, Inc., and South Atlantic S. S. Company of Delaware.

Two Not Eligible.

Another two—American Line S. S. Corporation and Panama Mail S. S. Company, operating intercoastal between New York and San Francisco—are no longer eligible for subsidies which aggregated about $1,250,000 a year under the mail contracts.

The commission also concluded, from the results of a survey of available shipyard facilities, that it would be "extremely unwise for the government to launch a spectacular shipbuilding program."

"Instead," the commission said, "a small volume of work should be put out at once, and additional contracts placed in an orderly manner."

Twenty-six yards with a capacity of 160 ways were included in the survey.

The commission found, so far as the east coast was concerned, that "it appears there are sufficient facilities and an adequate supply of personnel" for any building it was "likely to require."

Confederate Line Wavers, But 'Tis Held by Ladies

Not the thin gray line of tradition, but a black line—a line of velvet and satin, hung with red and white ribbons, with diamonds sparkling here and there.

They would have made a strange contrast to the barefoot veterans of the army of northern Virginia, these ladies in the receiving line of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, but they were nonetheless valiant.

For one hour and 15 minutes the members of the receiving line stood in the governor's mansion and shook hands with more than 600 delegates to the 44th annual convention of the U. D. C.

Their ranks were depleted before the reception broke up, but so were Lee's ranks at the battle of Chancellorsville—and that too was a victory for the south.

SENATOR CRITICIZES RAILWAY CREDITORS

Truman Says Failure To 'Go to Bottom' of Reorganization Is 'Pecular.'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Senator Truman, Democrat, Missouri, acting chairman of the senate railroad finance committee, criticized major creditors of the Missouri Pacific railroad today for what he said was failure to "go to the bottom" of the insolvent railroads' proposal for reorganization.

The Missouri senator told officers of two of the nation's largest life insurance companies it was a "peculiar situation when all the big insurance companies and others having a financial interest haven't gone to the bottom of this reorganization plan. It seems to me you should have had all the information on it before you made any deals."

Truman commented after Alfred H. Meyers, treasurer of the New York Life, and Frederic W. Ecker, vice president of Metropolitan Life, testified they were not familiar with some of the details of the reorganization plan prepared by Missouri Pacific.

They appeared as members of the Stedman bondholders' committee, composed chiefly of insurance companies holding Missouri Pacific securities.

Doomed Woman Prefers Death To Leaving Son

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 9.—(AP)—"They might as well get the chair ready," Anna Marie Hahn declared today, if the state moves her to prison and she cannot see her 12-year-old son.

The convicted poison slayer would "grieve herself to death," she told Sheriff Lutz. He quoted her as adding:

"If I'm taken to Columbus or Marysville (sites of the state prison and the women's reformatory) they might as well get the chair ready, for I'd die anyway."

Sheriff Lutz said Mrs. Hahn, casting aside the moody silence which had enveloped her since her conviction Saturday, urged him to make every effort to "see that I stay here among friends I have made in the jail" and near her son, Oscar.

Lutz said Mrs. Hahn, critical of the jury, was "very much disappointed" in John Granda, its single male member.

"I felt the women would convict me and I was sure of it as soon as I saw them step into the jury box," she asserted.

Ohio law requires transfer of a condemned person to the penitentiary within 30 days after sentencing, and state officials have discussed the problem of housing Mrs. Hahn. A hearing will be held Monday on her motion for a new trial from her conviction in the death of Joseph Wagner, 78—one of four deaths with which the state sought to link her.

Sasse Resigns as Head Football Coach at Mississippi State

(Editor's Note—Every member of the 1916 football team entered the service. All of them, scrubs and regulars, went into the war. Five of them died in France. On Saturday morning in Athens, at Memorial Hall, there will be a memorial service for the five men before the game that afternoon with Tulane. The five Georgia football players who died in the uniform of their country were Edmund Brewer Tate, Elliott Muse Braxton, Tom Reed Beasley, Macon Caldwell Overton and Walter Levy.)

EDMUND BREWER TATE.

"It was strange the Germans didn't fire. The engineers were putting a pontoon bridge across the Aire river, there in front of St. Juvin. It was curious, waiting. The Germans were up above on the opposite bank. They were in concrete machine-gun nests that had been there since the start of the war. Well, it was a beautiful October day. If the war were not on they would be playing football back in Athens. It wasn't many weeks since he had graduated there in June. He grinned a bit, thinking of the graduation speech. It was quiet there waiting. The Aire was a bit like the old Oconee, but not so muddy. It was curious the Germans didn't fire. But of course they were waiting for the time when the men started across. It would be possible to train machine guns on that bridge direct and to enfilade them, too. It would be rather tough going. It was "hot" there, anyhow. This business of going for the boys behind concrete was no picnic. It was a little bit more exciting than carrying a football or making a tackle. He had to lead his men across that bridge and he wished the word would come on. It was coming any minute now. They were starting. The opposite side of the bank broke into an iron clatter, a stuttering roar. Little gusts of wind seemed to blow by. Well, there was the word."

(It was "hot" that October day at St. Juvin. The records show it. Edmund Tate, of Elberton, got across that bridge, leading his men. He was killed as he reached the other side. That day it was a question of pouring the men over. They kept coming. The guns got hundreds and hundreds of them that day before St. Juvin. But that smoky, red-lit night the troops were in St. Juvin. The river Aire was behind them.)

MACON CALDWELL OVERTON.

"They were going into Chateau Thierry, was the Second Division. The marine regiment was keyed like a football team before the big game. The whole division was, for that matter. They had been told this was to be one of the decisive battles of the war. For the first time the American troops were to come to grips with the German troops. The Kaiser's guards were in front of them, the crack troops. Going in they passed the battered French, coming out. The whole world was waiting for the answer. The American troops, trained quickly, equipped in short order, ferried over in a hurry, were to have their first test. Well, they'd show them. Macon Overton had played four years as a scrub at Georgia. They'd given him a letter for his four years of scrubbing. It was worth it. Well, they were ready. And it was time to advance. They were in the wheat and the Germans were about to advance. There wasn't much time to dig in. The poppies looked pretty and out of place there in the yellow wheat. The marines were taking aim at the gray shapes who seemed like small puppets far away. The Americans were in it."

(The records—and the men—tell of that day. Until then a rifle had been used as a club or as a stick on which to place a bayonet. That day the marines adjusted their slings, felt the wind, fixed their sights for peep-sight shooting, and began to line them up and squeeze them off—just as they had learned there at Mare Island and at Parris Island and at Quantico. They picked out one of those gray shapes and held on to breath and squeezed the trigger. They gray shapes went down and they picked out another. The Kaiser's own said later they thought some new type machine gun had been invented. Later on, there was an advance. And the wheat, clipped by machine-gun fire, received and hid many of the marines and infantrymen of the Second Division. Overton, the Georgia scrub, was one of those who fell there. He was from Union Point, Ga.)

TOM BEASLEY—ELLIOTT BRAXTON.

"Well, it was a good life. And maybe a short one. The air corps was an army unto itself. The planes were not much good. The Germans had better ones. The ones the Americans and English had weren't as fast, they spun easier and the Germans, in addition, had more planes. Going on patrol was a thrill. There was talk the Germans had invented a parachute. Someone had said they were bailing out and getting safely down. Well, that was something. If one of their planes went bad there was nothing

Mann Will Submit Plan To Directors

By JACK TROY.

EN ROUTE TO MEMPHIS FOR SOUTHERN LEAGUE MEETING, Nov. 9.—President Earl Mann has a plan which he intends to submit to the other Southern association directors at the annual winter meeting Thursday and which he believes will add considerable color and interest during the season.

"I had rather not divulge what I have in mind until after I have had a chance to talk with some of the other directors tomorrow. If they think it is worth while, I'll offer this proposal at the meeting."

Mann is one of the more progressive directors. He is for all things that will benefit the league and interest the fans. His latest plan, while a bit shrouded in mystery, probably is one the fans will like.

Among the many admirable qualities about the youthful Cracker president is his policy of never building up false hopes among the club's supporters.

Mann never gives out stories that the club is trying to get such and such a star. He waits until a deal has been made and then breaks the news.

NOTHING EXCITING.

Personally, Earl does not look for anything exciting to develop at the annual meeting. But there may be some news to reveal about the Crackers. He is to confer with Manager Paul Richards while at Memphis.

The Crackers, of course, will have considerable changes in personnel for next season. A lot of new faces will greet the fans next summer.

Among the things expected to result when the directors get together are selection of an opening day date, approval of Judge John D. Martin as president for 1937—it will be his 20th consecutive year as head of the Southern league—discussion of the feasibility of broadcasting home games, and proposal of an all-star game to be held during the season.

Joe Engel may toss a few bombs of one nature or another into the meeting. After a year on the sidelines, Marse Joe should be rather steamed up and full of ideas, good and otherwise.

NEW MANAGER.

Engel goes to the meeting with the Chattanooga situation apparently well in hand. A new manager, Walter Millies, has been named and a number of new players have been acquired.

Engel is operating on the old theory that pennants are won in the winter time. He expects to complete the Lookout organization at the minor league meeting in Milwaukee in early December.

There has been small talk of discontinuing the Dixie series, but it is not taken seriously. This matter may come up at the meeting, but odds are that nothing will be done about it.

The annual series was a paying proposition last year. A Little Rock writer said positively that it would be discontinued, but he may have been a bit disgruntled at the manner in which the Fort Worth Cats handled the Travelers.

President Mann is looking for the Southern league to have one of its best years next summer. Changes at a couple of towns will make for better attendance.

And one of the weaker sisters, which will go unnamed, has already gone about building up for a better showing.

Marshall Beats Ro'che; Luttrell Star of Program

By THAD HOLT.

These wrestling champions must learn, if they are to receive the plaudits of the mob and the attention due a champion, to keep themselves off shows with Cowboy Luttrell. Last night, at the Atlanta theater, Everett Marshall, recognized in 27 states (including Maine and Vermont) as titleholder, defeated Dorv Roche in a splendid exhibition of wrestling—the clean way. There was science and more science with Marshall finally pinning Roche after 67 minutes. Neither man could handle the other in the remaining period of the 90-minute affair.

Cowboy Luttrell, meeting Pete Peterson in the semi-final, got all the jeers, made all the noise, caused all the animosity and created 90 per cent of the night's excitement. Many times enraged spectators stormed the ring and he dared them inside. They didn't go. They're probably a lot healthier today that they didn't.

"Atlanta Federal Players Present the Devil's Disciple," read a bold sign on the theater wall. The Cowboy apparently thought that meant him. He was more wicked, more wild and more provocative than ever, finally being disqualified in the third fall. To say that he stole the show is not half enough. He was the show.

"That guy is going to get murdered some of these days," murmured Frank Speer as he marveled at Luttrell's utter disregard for his own safety as he baited the crowd.

INJURIES RIDDLE BULLDOG RANKS

Six Regulars Miss Drill; Coach Mehre Cancels Scrimmages.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—The Georgia football training camp was figuratively turned into a first aid station today as the Bulldog injury list reached the peak of last October.

So alarming was the state that Coach Harry Mehre cancelled scrimmages for the rest of the week. At least six top-notch players were forced to pass up the drill today due to various ailments It is likely that many of the boys will be ready for Saturday.

Coach Harry Mehre refused to comment on the number of hurt players. "We're going to do our best. I'd rather that you not 'harp' on the injuries," he explained.

A short and snappy defensive scrimmage was held this afternoon. The "first string" was dominated by players heretofore playing substitute roles.

Among those missing the workout today were Jimmy Fordham, head cold; Carrol Thomas, bad toe; Pete Tinsley, bad cold; Bill Badgett, leg injury; Lew Young, hand injury; Walter Troutman, cold. Oliver Hunnicutt attended the drill but was unable to scrimmage due to his band shoulder. Captain Bill Hartman's leg is still giving trouble.

Regular Tulane End Lost for Georgia Tilt.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Tulane's Greenies continued preparations today for the Georgia game minus the services of First String End Jerry Friedrichs, and Halfback Warren Brunner, spark plug of the backfield.

Friedrichs was definitely lost for the Athens tilt. He suffered a deep leg cut in the Alabama game that required five stitches and will lay him up for at least ten days.

Brunner was nursing a toe broken in the Colgate encounter and reinjured Saturday, but Trainer Monk Simons expected him to be ready for the Bulldogs.

Detector Bimpkins Named Outstanding

PETERSBURG, Va., Nov. 9.—(AP) Eight dogs were classed as outstanding at the end of today's competition in the all-age stake of the Virginia Amateur Field Trial Association.

There are 48 dogs in the field and five more braces will be run tomorrow morning, with completion of the stake expected before night.

Tech-'Bama Game To Lure Big Crowd

3,000 Atlantans Expected To See Birmingham Classic; Jackets Drill on Defense.

By RALPH McGILL.

Lured by the alluring prospect that the southern football king, Alabama's Crimson Tide, may be toppled from the throne on Saturday in Birmingham, at least 3,000 Atlantans and 7,000 from the state at large plan to be on hand to see Georgia Tech try.

There is the feeling that if this Georgia Tech team once gets hot it will defeat any team it plays. There is much to substantiate that feeling because when the Tech team is clicking it will just about defeat any team it faces.

There is something in human nature which likes to see the king defeated. Hence, it hasn't been possible for more than a week to buy a good seat for the Saturday game. There will be 3,500 seats, general admissions, go on sale Saturday morning. There are still 5,000 reserved seats left but they all are down near the 5-yard line or behind the goal.

GOING FAST.

They are going fast. Georgia Tech's office alone has sold more than 1,000 tickets and the third order goes on sale this morning.

There is a great spirit of hope aflame at Georgia Tech.

The band is going to the game. The students are asking a half-holiday to go. They may go anyhow, taking cuts. There is one great hunch going the rounds that this week Tech is going to take up where Tulane left off and topple the Crimson Tide into the backwaters of defeated teams.

That is one side of the picture. The other isn't so optimistic. Coach W. A. Alexander yesterday continued to drill the Tech squad on defense against the Alabama plays.

Alabama has a fine pass attack and a magnificent running game. The line will outweigh Tech by about 15 pounds per man, on the average. The line may tell the story when day is done on Saturday.

MORE RESERVES.

Alabama has more reserves and more men with ability than has Tech. There is abundant evidence to substantiate the statement by Coach Alexander that Tech has only the slimmest chance to win and that a Tech victory will be an upset.

The Jackets suffered a blow yesterday when "General" Wood was hurt again in scrimmage. He may not be able to play against Alabama.

In addition, Glenn Cushing and Juno Page are still ailing. Chances are that all three may see action Saturday, but because of injuries, none of the three can be in the best of shape.

As announced in Sunday's Constitution, Alabama has two guards and a tackle with minor injuries but all will be ready to play.

Practice yesterday was devoted, as aforesaid, to defense. Only a little while was given to the Tech

Way of Stopping Sims to Jordan Worries Thomas

By JACK TROY.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 9.—Coach Frank Thomas' voice came over long-distance from Tuscaloosa in low, distinct wails tonight.

"How," he asked, "are we going to stop Sims and Jordan Saturday?"

"Who?"

"Sims and Jordan," Thomas repeated. "Scouts tell me they make up a passing combination that may outrival one we used to have, you remember one that used to go Howell to Hutson."

Frank Thomas spoke of Georgia Tech, Alabama's opponents Saturday at Legion field, as a team that might do anything, or everything.

"We're looking for a tough ball game," he continued, "maybe the toughest game of the season. And as for a crowd—well, it certainly is going to be the largest since the Georgia-Alabama game of 1930 at Legion field. We drew 26,000 that year. It should be about 24,000 Saturday."

"What about Alabama?"

"We have at least one injury that worries us," Thomas went on. "Captain Leroy Monsky is not in very good shape. We hope he will be ready but we aren't sure."

Thomas said that outside of Monsky the Alabama team was in good shape and ready to go back. "We were a bit down in the first half against Tulane, but we came back fighting in the second half. I thought we did well to get out with a victory, considering everything," he continued.

"I understand Georgia Tech is pretty tough and let me tell you that's the way we are preparing for this game. We look for Coach Alex to be ready."

The best available tickets are down around the 5-yard lines and even those are going rapidly. Extra seats are being constructed. They'll very likely be installed before Saturday comes.

"We are getting ready for a real ball game," Frank Thomas concluded, "and we still don't know what we are going to do about that passing combination of Sims to Jordan."

COLORFUL COACH QUITS ON ORDER OF HIS DOCTOR

Former Army Mentor Too Ill To Make Statement.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Colonel Ralph Sasse, one of football's most colorful figures, handed in his resignation as head coach of Mississippi State College today.

G. D. Humphrey, university president, said Sasse resigned on orders of his physician, Dr. J. W. Eckford, who asked that the colonel relinquish his duties immediately. The resignation, however, will not take effect until the present season ends.

Sasse, confined to bed at his home, was reported too ill to make a statement.

The colonel, before coming here in January, 1935, coached the United States military team at West Point for three seasons. The Army hung up its greatest three-year record under him.

His Mississippi State teams have won 18 games, lost eight and tied two. He lost to Duquesne, 13-12, in the Orange Bowl game January 1 this year.

This season the Staters lost three games, won three and tied one. The team beat Delta State Teachers, 39 to 0; Florida, 14 to 13, and Howard, 38 to 0, played a scoreless tie with Centenary and dropped decisions to Auburn, 33 to 7, Texas A. and M., 14 to 0, and Louisiana State, 41 to 0.

President Humphrey said no change would be made in the present coaching staff at this time, and no successor to Sasse would be named until after the season closes.

Sasse was noted for his many "publicity" ideas, among them being brine baths for his gridders and a "gridiron" julep and a suggestion that players wear kilts.

Smithies Play Industrial Thursday

Tech High will observe Ladies' Night Thursday evening when the Smithies open the week's prep football card with Columbus Industrial. The Smithies are undefeated and untied and have only Columbus Industrial and Boys' High in the way of both a city and state prep championship. Every lady accompanied by one paid admission will be admitted for 10 cents.

Meanwhile Boys' High, G. M. A., Commercial, Marist, Decatur, and Russell will hold light drills this afternoon in the final preparation for their semi-final games of the season Friday afternoon and night.

The Purples play Knoxville High, of Knoxville; G. M. A. plays Darlington at Rome; Commercial plays at Savannah; Marist meets Russell in an afternoon game at Ponce de Leon park and Decatur plays at Griffin in other games.

Tech High has scored 191 points against 19 for the opposition in winning eight games, and appears well on the road to Tech High's first championship in several years.

Tech High will be favored Thursday and it is likely that the Smithies will give every player in uniform a chance to play, should they get a comfortable lead early in the game.

Boys' High will have another tough game with Knoxville High Friday night, but after an unexpected tie with Lanier High last Friday night, the Purples can no longer be rated an underdog.

Decatur and Griffin High will battle Friday night at Griffin in probably the most important game of the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference this year. Both are undefeated, although Decatur was tied early in the season by North Fulton. Commercial is very much in the running and has not been defeated in the N. G. I. C. race.

Southeastern Teams Take 13, Tie 3; Westerners Are Toughest.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Three jousts with outlanders virtually will wind up the Southeastren Conference's intersectional and interconference football skirmishing this Saturday.

Kentucky takes on Boston College at Boston, Florida will be host to Clemson, of the Southern, at Gainesville, and Ole Miss will try to ground the aerial circus of Arkansas, defending Southwestern Conference champions.

Only Mississippi State's December 4 date with Duquesne and a possible Georgia Tech-California Christmas Day encounter remain on the "foreign" card after this week. The latter game will not be played if the Golden Bears represent the coast in the Rose Bowl.

The Southeastern has played 29 games this year with the Southern and Southwestren Conferences and with northern and eastern teams and has won 19, lost seven and tied three.

The Southwestern Conference has proved toughest. The Southeastern holds only a 3-2 edge in five games with the lads from the wide-open spaces. Against the north and east, the Southeastern has taken seven, dropped two and tied two.

The boisterous boys from the Southeastern have beaten representatives of their parent conference, the Southern, nine times while losing three and tying one.

BULLPUPS PREP FOR 'GATOR TILT

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Georgia's freshman football team is in good condition for its battle Armistice Day in Savannah with Florida's first-year men and is a greatly improved eleven over the one that suffered a 25-to-0 defeat at the hands of the University of South Carolina some weeks ago, according to Coach Howell Hollis.

With the exception of Rupert Blount, flashy runner from Glynn Academy in Brunswick, who has a slightly bruised ankle, the team is in perfect condition despite every-day scrimmages against the varsity.

Six Teams Form City Cage League

The many efforts to form a real fast league from the best basketball teams in Atlanta, culminated last night in the formation of the City league, which will play at the Y. M. C. A. Six teams make up the league at present, They are Reeder and McGaughey, Brookhaven, Gulf Oil Corporation, Doughnut Bakers, Columbia Seminary and the University of Georgia Evening School. Two other teams would be acceptable provided their strength is sufficient to play in this league, and they apply for entrance immediately.

The league will begin play either Thursday night, November 18, or Tuesday night, November 23.

Johnny Phillips was elected president of the league and Tommy Reeder will serve as secretary-treasurer. Pete Melton and Bill Gage were elected as officials, with John Chambers the alternate.

CARDINAL STAR TOPS HARTNETT BY TWO POINTS

Carl Hubbell Is Third; Johnny Mize Mentioned.

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—In well-deserved recognition of baseball's classiest clouting sweep since the palmy days of Ty Cobb, the Baseball Writers' Association today selected Ducky Medwick as the most valuable player in the National league for 1937.

Although they "split the ballot" and gave Gabby Hartnett, of the Cubs, more first-place nominations than the Cardinal clouter, the committee of eight writers—one from each city in the league—more than made up for it in Medwick votes for second and third place, which counted heavily in the final point tabulation.

As a result the No. 1 Gas House Gangster won the award, and the accompanying Sporting News trophy, by two points, 70 to 68 for Gabby.

HUBBELL THIRD.

King Carl Hubbell, recipient of the award last year, wound up in third place with 52 points. Surprise of the balloting was the high total cast for the sensational "old man" rookie pitching pair of the Boston Bees, Jim Turner and Lou Fette, who were picked for fourth and fifth, respectively, with 30 and 29 points.

For Medwick and the dose of pitchers' poison packed in his war club, the award topped off a year in which he not only achieved his long desired goal, the batting championship, but cleaned up in just about every other important individual offensive department as well. His classic performance precipitated the season's hottest argument as to whether he or Joe DiMaggio, of the Yankees, is the best all-round outfielder in the game today.

He batted for .400 for most of the season, then wounded up with .374 after a late season slump. He was the league champion in runs, with 111; hits, with 237; runs batted in, with 154; doubles, with 57, and tied with Mel Ott, of the Giants, for the home run crown, with 31. Not since Cobb was taking things apart in his heyday has the game seen anything like it.

EIGHT EXPERTS.

With each of the eight voting experts casting a ballot for 10 choices in the order he wanted them selected, Medwick drew two first-place nominations; Hartnett three. Each was selected twice on a second-place ballot. But Medwick collected four third-place mentions, while the rest of Hartnett's votes were strung out, one each for third, fourth and sixth.

A first-place vote counted 10 points; second, nine; third, eight, and so on.

Hornsby, Hubbell Have Won Twice.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—An award for the National league's most valuable player was first made in 1911, and was known as the Chalmers award. This was continued annually until 1914. In 1924, after a lapse of ten years, the National league revived the honor, and made the award each year until 1929. In 1930, in a poll conducted by the Associated Press, the "most valuable player" was selected by a committee of baseball writers, and, beginning in 1931, the Baseball Writers' Association started the current method of selection.

NEGRO FIGHTERS READY FOR BOUT

In the opening program of the fall boxing season, Atlanta fans are offered a peppy card Thursday night at the Spring Street arena with two negro middleweights as main attraction by Promoter Cleve Roby.

T. Hubert, rising Atlanta negro, will meet Battling P. G., veteran negro fighter from Jacksonville, Fla., in the 10-rounder.

With the neat record of only one loss in his brief ring career, the Atlanta battler's weight is settling at 165 pounds, while his opponent, who has lost four fights out of a total of 110, weighs 166.

More local talent will be shown in the eight-round semi-windup when Gene Black, veteran Atlanta lightweight, meets Bennie Johnson, of Decatur.

Back into the main six-round preliminary comes Al Hart, the 217-pound heavyweight, to meet Tiger Oliver, of Tampa, Fla. The winner will be matched against Bearcat Obie Walker next week.

Jabbin' Foots, Atlanta lightweight, will meet Battling Lee in the second four-rounder. Another four-round bout opens the card at 8:30 o'clock.

Final Round Today In East Lake Bogey

Final rounds in East Lake's regular mid-week blind bogey will be played today, instead of Thursday. Scores in Tuesday's play and today also will count in the bogey.

A special holiday dogfite will be played Thursday afternoon on the No. 2 course. Entries for the one-day event must be in the golf shop by noon so that play can start at 12:30 o'clock.

'BAMA IS THIRD IN GRID RATING; PANTHERS FIRST

Tide Draws 13 Firsts, But California Has Better General Support.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's Panthers will be protecting a new honor when they meet Nebraska Saturday in a major intersectional duel.

For the expected crowd of 70,000 will see, in Pitt, the team that has displaced California as national leader in the latest Associated Press ranking poll. The combination of the unbeaten, oncetied Panthers' drubbing of Notre Dame and California's tie with Washington lifted Jock Sutherland's team out in front by 509 1-2 points to 449.

Pitt won 31 1-2 of the 55 first-place votes in this week's survey. The half-vote came from a ballot on which the first-place award was split between Pitt and Fordham, the team which deadlocked the Rose Bowl champions and, on the strength of its own rout of Purdue, moved from tenth to fourth place in the balloting.

Between California, which was tops for three weeks, and Fordham is Alabama, which drew 13 firsts to the coast team's nine but did not win as much general support. As a result the southerners skidded out of the runner-up position.

The 50 per cent proportion that finds two eastern elevens in this week's top four is carried out through the rest of the first 10. Dartmouth and Yale, fifth and sixth, and Villanova, ninth, are the other sectional representatives to gain the experts' backing.

The tabulation, with points on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis and first-place votes in brackets:

FIRST TEN—	POINTS.
1. Pittsburgh (31½)	509½
2. California (9)	449
3. Alabama (13)	422
4. Fordham (1½)	387½
5. Dartmouth	253
6. Yale	215
7. Santa Clara	166
8. Duke	159
9. Villanova	62
10. Minnesota	61

SECOND TEAM: 11, Nebraska, 55; 12, Louisiana State, 52; 13, Baylor, 43; 14, Auburn, 30; 15, Rice, 29; 16, Colorado University, 23; 17, Indiana, 13; 18, Notre Dame, 12; 19, Holy Cross, 7; 20, Arkansas, 6.

ALSO-RAN: Army 2, Washington, Ohio State, Montana and Lafayette, 1 each.

Last week's "first tenners" who dropped out were Baylor, Nebraska and Ohio State. Taking their places are Minnesota, unbeaten; once-tied Duke, and Villanova.

Patrick Puts Men Through Stiff Drill

Coach John Patrick sent his charges through a stiff workout yesterday in an effort to strengthen his offensive power. He put his entire squad through a brisk scrimmage and then to top off his day's program a signal drill was called.

With the return of Bobby Mills and the injured Bob Murphy the Petrels' defense for their homecoming game with Mississippi College should be at its peak. However, the Petrel mentor was discouraged with the offensive shown by his first team and so it is quite likely that the sophomore backfield that has shown so well in the last two games will get the call over the veterans when the opening whistle blows Saturday.

Arvil Axelberg is showing up well. Yesterday's scrimmage virtually assured him of the starting call when he ran roughshod over the entire Frosh squad for two touchdowns and several other large gains. Coupled with him in the starring role today was the other lightweight backfielder, Ed Schwabe. Schwabe is the only consistent ground-gainer on the squad.

to do but ride her down or jump. Or, if the crate would glide, to try and reach your own lines. Well, it was time to go on patrol. Here he was, Elliott Muse Braxton, from Virginia, and there was Tom Beasley, from Reidsville, Georgia. They were both Georgia men and both in the flying corps. It would be interesting to know something from Athens. And the school."

(Georgia had men in all branches of the service and the five who died represented the engineers, the marine corps, the flying corps and the United States marine. Beasley, the Georgian, and Braxton, the Virginian, graduated from Georgia in June of 1917, the former in law and the latter in agriculture. One wanted to farm and the other wanted to become a famous figure in the courtrooms of the nation. They both died in dog fights with German planes.)

WALTER LEVY.

"This Soissons thing was quite a battle. Even the commander of a platoon could get some idea of that. It was a tremendous battle, stretching for miles, was this affair at Soissons. Well, it was rather heavy going. There wasn't much cover in a wheat field. But they were advancing and that was something. He and his platoon would keep going. Those were the orders. He wondered how the other boys from Georgia were doing. The machine gun bullets seemed to be about the top of the wheat. The heads of grain would fall off and seem to drop straight down. That was curious. There wasn't much cover in a wheat field."

(There wasn't much cover. And Walter Levy, another football scrub, remained there in the wheat, the fifth of the Georgia squad to give his life for his country. Thursday is Armistice Day. On Saturday morning Tom Reed, one of the really great men of the state, and one who has known more Georgia students than any other man, will conduct the services. The committee holding the reunion wants all the old players there Friday night for the banquet and then to remain for the next morning's services and the afternoon game. "War Eagle" Ketron, one of the immortals of those days; Hatton Lovejoy, who was a fullback on Pop Warner's Georgia team; Harold Hirsch, Marion Smith, Charley Bloch, the latter from Macon, and Charley Blum, of Jacksonville, will be there, as will about 150 others. All players of the 1910-1919 period—or earlier—are invited.

HEARINGS ARE HELD ON SOIL DISTRICTS

3 Counties Oppose Plan; 1 Upholds It; 4 Others Will Vote Today.

The fate of the proposed Middle Chattahoochee River soil conservation district now rests with the farmers of Meriwether, Talbot, Harris and Muscogee counties, extension service officials indicated last night, the plan having been approved by landowners of one county and opposed by those of three others in a series of hearings yesterday.

At LaGrange, approximately 250 farmers voted almost solidly against inclusion of Troup county in the proposed district after listening attentively to an explanation of the soil conservation act by J. W. Evans and a sharp attack on the plan by Leon Meadors. Only two assenting votes were cast, it was reported.

Plan Loses In Coweta.

Approximately 100 landowners, meeting at Newnan, voted against inclusion of Coweta county in the district. Supporters of the movement said another meeting will be held in the near future to rally strength in behalf of the proposal.

Farmers, whose views were almost evenly divided, voted after a hearing in Fayetteville to support Fayette's participation in the plan. T. L. Asbury, of Athens, extension soil conservationist, discussed provisions of the act at the hearing.

Little interest was reported at Franklin, where a small crowd of Heard county farmers opposed the plan.

Further hearings will be held at the courthouses in Greenville (Meriwether) and Hamilton (Harris) between 10 a. m. and noon today, and in Talbotton (Talbot) and Columbus (Muscogee) between 2 and 4 p. m.

Purpose of Hearings.

The hearings are being held on the question of the desirability and necessity of the proposed district in the interest of public health, safety and welfare, and to determine the boundaries of the district if it is to be created. The final decision will rest with the state soil conservation committee.

Should a majority vote in the eight counties of the proposed district favor the plan, a referendum will be conducted by the state committee before the district may be created.

Similar hearings on the proposed West Georgia soil conservation district will be held between 10 a. m. and noon tomorrow at the courthouses in Buchanan (Haralson county) and Douglasville (Douglas), and between 2 and 4 p. m. in Carrollton (Carroll) and Dallas (Paulding).

PLANE FALLS; 2 DIE

Pilot Apparently Tried To Stunt, Witnesses Say.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Raymond Arthur Duffey, 25, and Harvey Edward Sievert, of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, Mich., were killed this aftrenoon when their airplane crashed near the city.

The three-place, open-cockpit biplane crashed in an open field east of the city airport. The bodies were extricated with difficulty from the wreckage.

Farmers working near-by said the plane turned on its back and dived to earth. Lincoln Churchill and Russell Dagvert, of Porter, Ind., who saw the crash from the airport, said the pilot apparently attempted to stunt while flying low.

Louisiana University Reports New Mineral

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 9. (AP)—The Louisiana State University School of Geology announced today discovery of hilgardite, a heretofore unknown mineral.

The university said the clear, colorless borate was discovered last spring in a salt dome in Iberville parish by Ralph E. Taylor, a graduate student from Ann Arbor, Mich.

The mineral was named for E. W. Hilgard, a pioneer Mississippi geologist. It has not yet been determined if the substance has any commercial value.

Cattle on Roads Target of Drive By Jaycee Group

Proposing a bill to make livestock owners responsible for keeping cattle from highways, Slater Marshall, chairman of a special committee of the Georgia Junior Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that copies of the bill, in tentative form, will be circulated among all Georgia legislators.

With less than a dozen counties in the state having fence laws, which state law permits to be adopted by popular referendum, he said this was "the wrong way to go about it."

"It will cost at least $5,000,000 to fence all highways in the state," Marshall declared, "and one way to get this accomplished is to gain the interest of members of the general assembly in passing a bill to force individual cattle owners to fence their property."

Marshall said no effort will be made to introduce the bill before the next regular session of the general assembly.

ACCUSED LAWYER GIVEN NEW TRIAL

Error Found in Case of W. I. Geer, Convicted in the Slaying of Woman.

W. I. Geer, Colquitt attorney, under death sentence in the slaying of a young woman, was granted a new trial yesterday by the Georgia supreme court.

The high court found error in the charge of Judge W. C. Worrill to the jury which convicted Geer of killing Mrs. Charlie Mae Houston January 8, 1936.

At the trial, held in Terrell county on a change of venue from Miller, Vivian Hatcher testified Geer shot Mrs. Houston in a room the two women occupied together. Mrs. Houston at one time was Geer's secretary.

The supreme court said Judge Worrill erred in charging the jury the law did not fix "the degree of insanity which renders a man or woman legally irresponsible for his or her acts."

Geer has been held in the Dougherty county jail at Albany since conviction.

Geer is a former member of the legislature. Now nearly 70 years old he has for several decades been a picturesque figure in Georgia politics. He always wears a frocked coat and effects mannerisms of the old school. In political circles he is referred to as "the judge."

MRS. ALICE BELL DIES IN 51ST YEAR

Had Been Resident of Atlanta for 28 Years.

Mrs. Alice Bell, 50, died last night at a private hospital after an illness of ten weeks. She lived at 310 Wellington street, S. W.

$83,831 DISBURSED BY RIVERS' OFFICE

Receipts Are $85,900 for Six-Month Period.

Receipts of the Governor's office totaled $85,900 and expenditures $83,831 during the first six months of this year, report by State Auditor Tom Wisdom showed yesterday.

One of the major expenses was the supplying of Georgia codes to 2,500 justices of the peace. This cost $25,182. Codes were ordered distributed to the justices in a special act of the assembly.

The auditor's report showed $12,262 was expended by the Governor's office proper. The balance went for the upkeep of the executive mansion, the capital building and grounds and special and miscellaneous expenditures.

Governor Rivers personally drew $3,508 in salary and expenses total $77.15 during the six month period.

YELLOW RIVER RISES; JAPANESE BLAMED

SHANGHAI, Wednesday, Nov. 10. — (UP) — The International Famine Relief Committee reported today that the Yellow river in North China is overflowing its banks and threatened a worse flood than in 1935 when thousands lost their lives.

A member of the committee said that the floods were caused by Japanese breaking the dikes.

RECORD ALMOND CROP IS FORECAST FOR 1937

SINGLE BODY URGED TO PLAN NEW SOUTH

Dixie Must Rise To Meet Industry's Challenge, Says Dr. Coutu.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Walter Coutu, of the University of Georgia's department of sociology, tonight proposed creation of an interstate planning board to co-ordinate southern industrial development.

In an address prepared for delivery at the opening session of the university's Public Welfare Institute, Dr. Coutu said: "I believe it lies within the power of the south to determine the destiny of America if we can rise to the challenge."

Citing "the appearance of advance guards of a new industrial development" in the past two years, the speaker said industry "is coming with a rapidity that may overwhelm the south if we are not prepared to accept it."

He said that "instead of a disconnected series of competitive advertising campaigns by chambers of commerce in widely separated southern cities, we need an official planning commission for the south, sanctioned and financed by interstate compacts, which will allocate these new industrial plants, in co-operation with the owners, according to an integrated plan involving the best interests of the industries and the greatest needs of the areas and people involved."

AIR OFFICIAL SLAYS WIFE, CLOSE FRIEND

Found Them Embracing When He Rose From Nap, He Says.

GLENDALE, Cal., Nov. 9.—(AP) Paul A. Wright, 38-year-old aviation executive, shot dead his young wife and one of his close friends, John Bryant Kimmel, early today when, he told authorities, he found them in each other's arms in the Wright home.

Wright related to Police Chief V. B. Browne that he discovered his comely 28-year-old wife embracing Kimmel, also a married man, when he arose from a nap. Wright is president of Union Air Terminal and Kimmel was traffic manager.

Earlier Wright and Kimmel returned from a round of night-clubbing in Hollywood. Wright said he had brought Kimmel home with him to "alibi" his (Wright's) coming in so late. They started the night at a stag party involving initiation of a new member into the "Quiet Birdmen's Club" and later went elsewhere including Clara Bow's "It" Club.

Kimmel died at a hospital eight hours after the shooting, which occurred about 4 a. m. Mrs. Wright, the former Evelyn McBride, Chicago actress, was dead upon arrival of police.

Wright said he and Kimmel arrived home shortly after midnight and had some more drinks.

Police said they found on top of a piano a whisky highball and two empty glasses.

MISS DOLLY ECTOR DIES AT RESIDENCE

Funeral Services Will Be Conducted Today.

Miss Dolly Ector, 76, died yesterday morning at the residence, 393 West Ontario avenue, S. W., after a short illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at Peachtree chapel at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. Irby Henderson and Dr. Walt Holcombe will officiate with burial following in West View cemetery.

Pallbearers will be seven nephews, J. W. Ector, Raymond Ector, Jack Berry, C. D. Sindle, Ben Brantley, Arthur Lee, all of Atlanta, and I. D. Murphy, of Moreland, Ga.

Others surviving include two sisters, Mrs. Laura McKerley, of Atlanta; Mrs. J. W. Dickerson, of East Point; a brother, D. W. Ector, of Henderson, Texas, and several nieces.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR JOHN D. FERARI

Funeral services for John D. Ferari, assistant manager of the American Optical Company, of Atlanta, who died Sunday in a private hospital after a short illness, were held yesterday morning at the Immaculate Conception church.

Father Joseph Smith conducted the final rites and burial was in West View cemetery.

CRIPPLE SENTENCED IN DEATH OF MOTHER

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—(AP)—William George McKibbon, 45, wheel-chair cripple convicted of fatally beating his aged mother, was sentenced by Judge Thomas White today to serve one to 10 years in prison.

McKibbon allegedly quarreled with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth McKibbon, because she threatened to take his wheel chair from him contending he was lazy.

Under Knife 43 Times, Sneeze Breaks His Rib

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP) Colonel William T. Kennedy, who survived 43 operations performed as a result of World War service, sneezed at his home here and broke a rib.

During his active service in the war as a sergeant, Kennedy never suffered a broken bone. Doctors expected him to recover from the rib fracture.

NEW U. S. ATTITUDE ON BUSINESS URGED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Representative Frank W. Hancock, Democrat, of Oxford, N. C., called today for a change in government attitude toward business.

Hancock, here for the first time since announcing his senatorial candidacy, said in a statement he "hoped and believed" President Roosevelt would recommend to the special session of congress "a careful but thorough revision of those laws which now discourage the investment of private funds in business."

MACON ELECTS MAYOR.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Macon went through the formality of electing a mayor and a board of aldermen today. A light vote was polled. There was no opposition to Charles L. Bowden for mayor, and the aldermanic slate chosen in the primary of last July.

ments of a political character was the assertion he could not believe "this war talk," a statement that bore out his years of ardent pacificism.

Troubled by Eyes.

Before sailing he said that he was feeling fairly fit, but his eyes troubled him.

"I don't see as well as I used to," he said, but added he intended to "think seriously" about writing an ambitious book on his turbulent political life.

MacDonald's promising political career was gravely threatened in 1914 when as leader of the growing labor party he opposed the World War and was bitterly denounced as a traitor.

His government was of short duration, but later he returned to head a second labor cabinet. Following the financial crisis of 1931 he accepted the late King George V's invitation to form a national government, a step which led labor to denounce him as the betrayer of their cause.

After leaving No. 10 Downing Street, MacDonald stayed in public life, however, as lord president of the council and as a result shared duties in connection with the abdication of Edward VIII last year and the coronation of George VI.

Last May he gave up his office and was offered a peerage but declined the honor saying he had always been a man of the people and desired to remain so.

Later he remarked he hardly could expect his north country friends, who had always called him "Jamey," to call a native of Lossiemouth, Scotland, "Mi'lord."

Daughter Tells Family.

Ishbel MacDonald was the only member of the family at their home, Upper Frognall Lodge Hampstead, London, and she had the task of informing other members of the family.

His son, Malcolm, who is dominions secretary, was informed by telephone in Brussels where he is attending the nine-power treaty conference. His other son, Alastair, who is in north England, could not be reached immediately.

Former Home Minister John R. Clynes, who was a member of MacDonald's first government and was intimately associated with him in his early Labor party days, said "although after 1931 I had very acute differences with Mr. MacDonald, I am intensely sorry to hear of his death.

"As regards our acquaintance up to the break of 1931, I have the most pleasant memories of his greatness and his work. He was not only a great orator but a great organizer."

The labor leader, George Lansbury, said "I am dreadfully sorry. He was one of the pioneers of the labor movement, and although we separated in 1931, all of us will remember what he did in the days when the movement was struggling."

HULL IS GRIEVED BY DEATH OF FRIEND

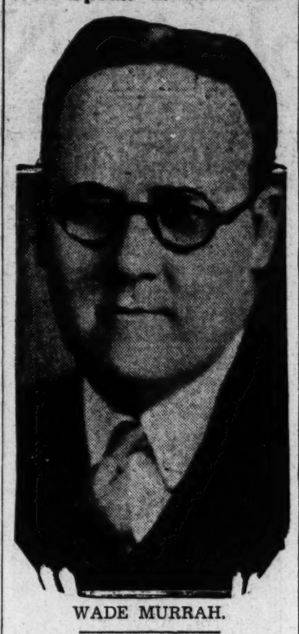

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Secretary Hull issued the following statement tonight on the death of Ramsay MacDonald.

"I have learned with the deepest sorrow of the death of the Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald. His death removes from the world a great leader, profound statesman, and a loyal friend. In my association with him in our individual tasks of making clear to each other the point of view of our respective countries I always found him a forthright and helpful representative of the great people he was privileged to lead. His untiring efforts for peace placed him in the front ranks of those who tried to make a better world for us to live in."

DRY VOTE MOUNTS.

GENEVA, Ala., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Geneva county apparently returned to dry ranks tonight with incomplete returns of a special election showing 1,112 votes for retaining present liquor laws and 1,347 against.

port persisted. A "small fry" bootlegger was said to have told Andrews the two deputies found the liquor and then demanded $1,000 to "keep quiet."

As preparations were made to take up where the last jury left off, climaxed by indictment of 23 lottery "big shots," Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy ordered two of the indictments, upon which no court action has been taken, transferred from superior court to the jurisdiction of Judge Jesse M. Wood in criminal court.

Five-count indictments for lottery against Mrs. Helen Billingsley and F. C. Pritchett were ordered transferred.

Fines varying between $50 and $1,000 were imposed on the other 31 operators along with suspended sentences amounting to five years for each.

Period of "Grace."

When pleas of guilty were entered, Mrs. Billingsley and Pritchett did not appear. Pritchett was said to have left Atlanta in July. Mrs. Billingsley was given an indefinite period of time to enter a plea of guilty or make a bond at Fulton tower. Warrants for arrest had not been issued for either when the indictments were transferred.

Solicitor John McCelland, of criminal court, said yesterday warrants for the arrest of both would be issued immediately.

A new lottery indictment, returned Friday against a negro, Theodore Alexander, also was transferred to the criminal court. Alexander was indicted on seven counts charging him with lottery activity November 1. He is being held at Fulton tower under $2,000 bond.

Andrews, who urged the fines and suspended sentences for the lottery "big shots," said yesterday he had not requested the transfer.

Two hi-jacking suspects, Hugh Downs and Hoyt Lampkin, now being held in Fulton tower, were questioned at length by Andrews yesterday, but he had no comment to make.

Victor in Court Tilt May Sue for Salary

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—The legal controversy over the city recordership here apparently was not ended today, despite the action of the state supreme court in upholding Homer V. Johnson's claim to the office over Fred L. Brewer, who has served since April 2.

The city commissioners, on March 22, elected Johnson. At a special called meeting March 31, they elected Brewer, setting forth that Johnson had not at that time qualified. Both qualified later that day. When Johnson appeared at court April 5 to assume the post, he found Brewer had preceded him. Following the ensuing hearing of quo warranto proceedings, Judge B. P. Gaillard Jr., in Hall superior court, upheld Johnson's claim to the office. The case then was carried to the supreme court, which yesterday affirmed the judgment of the lower court.

Attorneys for Johnson today indicated they would present a formal request to the city commission for salary for Johnson since his election, and that if this is refused they will enter suit.

he helped get the game started in Alabama and Georgia.

Dr. Dorsey was born September 4, 1873, at Fayetteville, in Fayette county, Georgia. He was the second son of Judge Rufus Thomas Dorsey. The family moved to Atlanta in 1879, and Dr. Dorsey was educated in the grammar schools. He then attended Auburn, where he was graduated in 1894.

Dr. Dorsey graduated in medicine at the Southern Medical College, later incorporated into Emory University, and also held a degree from Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia. He served as resident physician at Jefferson Medical hospital after graduation.

While he was there, the Spanish-American war broke out and Dr. Dorsey served as assistant surgeon in the Philippines till 1901, when he returned to the States and was instructor in medicine at Atlanta Medical College.

He later was professor of clinical medicine at the same college and also served on the Emory staff.

Medical Major.

He served as a major in the medical corps in the World War, being stationed at the Fox Hills base hospital at Staten Island, New York.

With the exception of this absence, he practiced in Atlanta from 1901 until his death. He became a recognized authority on pellagra. He was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity at Auburn. He was a member of the St. Mark Methodist church. In his profession he was a member of the American College of Physicians, the Southern Medical Association and the American Medical Association.

He was married to Miss Laura Witham, October 18, 1906.

Mrs. Dorsey survives, as do the two brothers, Judge Hugh M. Dorsey and Cam D. Dorsey; one sister, Mrs. Luther Z. Rosser Jr., and several nieces and nephews.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sciple Celebrate Golden Wedding Date

By Sally Forth.

THE golden wishes of a host of devoted and admiring friends greeted Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sciple yesterday on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. Though the day was spent informally at their Peachtree street home, from early morning till late evening the hours were filled with receiving callers, telegrams, letters, and gifts in observance of the auspicious date, for no members of Atlanta society are more genuinely beloved than are Mr. and Mrs. Sciple. Ranking among the city's pioneers, they have long been recognized leaders in the social, cultural and business life, becoming more highly esteemed and appreciated as the years rolled by.

Among the lovely tributes in remembrance of the wedding date was a great box of golden chrysanthemums sent by a small group of friends. Another was a beautiful wedding cake, surrounded by golden roses, that bore a testimonial of devotion from another group. Too numerous to mention were other gifts testifying to the admiration in which the couple is held by friends in every walk of life.

Born Kate Murphy, Mrs. Sciple is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Murphy, and her marriage to Mr. Sciple took place November 10, 1887, at the ancestral Murphy home on Lee street. Her father, you remember, was among the Atlantans who figured prominently in the thrilling recapture of the engine "General" by the "Texas" in stirring Civil War days.

The couple was married by the late Dr. J. W. Lee, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, with the bride wearing her mother's wedding veil of duchess lace and carrying a bouquet presented her as a gift by Mrs. John E. Murphy, who was then Miss Julia Gatins. Encased in a lace paper frill, the bouquet of white roses and star jasmine was made by Mrs. Mary Lagomarsino, who at that time was Atlanta's only florist. There were four wedding attendants, none of whom are living today, including Miss Sally Adair, who later became Mrs. Marshall Eckford; Miss Leila Davenport, who afterwards became Mrs. Lawson Stapleton, of Americus; Jack Curtright and Lawrence Harrison.

In those days silver was just coming into vogue for tableware, and the first silver dishes Mrs. Sciple ever remembers seeing were a pair of bonbon dishes sent her as wedding gifts. "They looked as big as platters," she said, "for no one had silver at that time. Our table, for instance, was set in pearl-handled flatware, and even cut glass had never been heard of. We still used pressed glass."

Mr. and Mrs. Sciple have one son, Charles Murphy Sciple, and two grandchildren, Mary Louise and Charles M. Sciple Jr., all of whom were with them yesterday on their anniversary. Climaxing the day was the dinner at which Mrs. Frank Ellis entertained at her home in Brookwood Hills, the occasion assembling only the immediate relatives and closest friends of the couple. The beautifully appointed table featured a motif of gold in observance of the occasion, which hosts of Atlantans marked with pleasure and pride because of their deep and lasting affection for the honor guests.

THE "Big Apple" has progressed to table decorations! And most successfully, too. For yesterday when Mrs. Earl Cone entertained for a trio of debutantes, her luncheon table presented a new and more beautiful version of the latest dance craze.

Centering the attractive arrangement was a huge red apple—as big as a pumpkin, if you please. And around the apple were miniature figures, really going into the intricate mazes of the dance. For instance, there was the Susie Q, the bird in the cage, truckin' and shinin'—all done by tiny boys and girls. The boys wore full dress suits, complete even to white ties and boutonnieres, and the girls wore the latest modes in evening gowns displaying the vivid autumn colors.

In addition, there was an orchestra in miniature, with all the horns and drums and fiddles that go to make the proper music for the "Big Apple." To further carry out the motif, the ends of the luncheon table were graced by small apple trees, bearing real fruit of a brilliant crimson hue.

The luncheon was given at the Driving Club, and the honor guests were Laura Hill, Ida Akers and Wileyna Upshaw. It's a safe bet that the trio will not have a more novel or a more beautiful party given for them throughout their debutante season.

BECAUSE of her keen interest to help Georgia's mountain boys and girls secure an education, Mrs. Herbert Oliver has given two of her magnificent paintings to be awarded as prizes at the benefit bridge party sponsored by the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls Schools on November 16 at the Piedmont Driving Club. Measuring two by three feet and framed in bamboo, the paintings depict American birds painted in their brilliantly colored plumage.

The paintings, which Mrs. Oliver has so generously donated for such a worthy cause, were among the collection shown recently by Mrs. Oliver at the Erik Newhaus Galleries in New York. Artists in the metropolis paid high compliment to the work of the Atlantan, who is a graduate of the Maryland Art Institute in Baltimore, and who studied in Europe for two years under George Elmer Brown.

Mrs. Oliver is an active worker in the Young Matrons' Circle, the purpose of which is to raise funds for Tallulah Falls school, where the mountain children of this state can receive an education.

MISS DOROTHY SANFORD.

Miss Dorothy Sanford, lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sanford, was formally presented to Atlanta society last evening at a colorful ball at the Piedmont Driving Club, at which her parents entertained.

The beautiful ballroom of the club was artistically decorated to carry out a color scheme of green and gold, with the columns down the sides of the room wrapped in gold bunting and garlanded with smilax. The receiving line stood at the right of the entrance to the room before masses of palms, ferns and a profusion of yellow chrysanthemums. Placed on pedestals around the group were the many beautiful floral tributes sent to the attractive debutante by a host of friends and admirers.

The two long buffet supper tables, one on the left-hand side of the ballroom and one in the foyer of the club, were graced with smilax and centered with large silver bowls of fruit. The coffee tables in the ballroom and the punch tables in the foyer were similarly decorated. The ceiling lights in the ballroom were covered with yellow paper to cast a golden glow over the entire room.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Sanford and Miss Sanford. Miss Sanford was radiantly lovely in an exquisite French model of pale corn-colored silk net, appliqued with ribbon flowers in yellow tones. The dress, which featured a bouffant skirt falling floor-length from the tight-fitting bodice, was finished with a gold sash. The debutante carried an old-fashioned bouquet of yellow roses centered with orchids.

Mrs. Sanford was handsomely gowned in black net, appliqued with matching sequins in a rose design and fashioned with a full skirt flaring from the bodice, which was fitted to below the hip line. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of white orchids.

Assisting the hosts in entertaining were Mrs. Vasser L. Allen, of Birmingham, Ala., Mrs. Sanford's sister; Mr. and Mrs. Joel Chandler Harris, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hynds, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ashcraft, Judge and Mrs. Shepherd Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Peeples, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Adair, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Ottley, Mrs. Charles Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Darby, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spratlin, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Arledge, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. William Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stearne, Misses Julia Grayson, of Huntsville, Ala.; Beverly Bailey, Robyn Peeples, Elkin Goddard, Katherine Newman, Roline Adair, Amelia Hewlett, Martha Burnett, Laura Hill and Anne Atkins.

Miss Sanford danced the first dance with Joel Chandler Harris. A buffet supper was served at midnight to the several hundred guests, and a leading southern orchestra played for the occasion.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

ROCKFORD, Ill., Monday.—Limitations of space prevented my telling you yesterday about one of the most interesting things I have seen on this trip, the Federal Forest Products Laboratory in Madison, Wis. It is a most modern building and stands high up on university ground. In return for a certain amount of university support, students are allowed to work there. Of course, one could spend days being absorbed in the experiments they are making, but we had only a few minutes.

The director, Major Winslow, knew of my interest in some of the research work they have been doing on a possible woodworking industry for the government homestead in Tygarts Valley, W. Va. He told me at once that their plan was almost complete. This homestead is near a national forest and they are going to use the wood which must be cut there. About 125 men will be employed in turning out whatever the laboratory finds will be marketable. The laboratory carried on experiments on the proper drying of wood for various purposes and gives advice on the building and operating of drying kilns.

They also showed me an experimental model of a small portable sawmill which will be on a towing truck and can be hooked to an automobile and taken from place to place. On the truck will be a saw which will cut the logs to better advantage than the usual saw found in the small temporary sawmills set up throughout the south or on individual farms in other parts of the country.

Lastly, they showed us their experiments with plywood glued together with insulating material packed between the two boards. This is to be used in the building of low-cost dwellings. An experimental house which they had on the premises for exhibition was put up in three days.

The sections of the house are all prepared in advance. This particular house had a flat roof, but they could put on a different type of roof, and they are going to experiment with two-story houses. It is a four-room house with plumbing, heating, and a very complete kitchen. They are all watching with interest to see how it will stand a Wisconsin winter. This may be one of the future solutions to the low-cost housing problem.

Last night, on our way to the lecture in Chicago, we stopped to see the Elks' memorial, a most imposing and magnificent building. In the rotunda, marble has been used from every part of the world and the color scheme is really very beautiful. The murals are interesting, but to the housekeeper's eye the most startling achievement was the absolute cleanliness of the building, which they assured me had at times thousands of visitors a day. I think the custodian and his fellow workers deserve great praise.

We left Chicago this morning at 9 o'clock and are now in Rockford, Ill., a typical midwestern industrial city. The sunshine and the people are very kind and cordial and give one a feeling of real welcome.

Georgia's Plans for Parole System Revision Praised by U. S. Expert

Georgia is taking a step forward in formulating plans to improve its parole system, Richard A. Chappell, acting supervisor of the probation system of the United States courts, said here yesterday.

"A good probation and parole system would not only be better for society and offenders, but it would also save the state thousands of dollars," Chappell declared. "I am happy to see that Governor Rivers is leading the fight for a better system."

Here for Conference.

The national official, who was in Atlanta yesterday to confer with Ed Everett, federal probation officer for the northern district of Georgia, said the state now has a parole system in name only, with the exception of a few of the large counties. Chappell is a graduate of Mercer University and until recently headed the federal probation office in Atlanta.

In order to have an efficient system, he said intelligent selection, preparation of a plan, and close supervision are necessary. He emphasized the necessity of making a thorough investigation of every case, adding that he is in favor of a conservative use of paroles.

One of the most glaring faults of most systems of probation and parole is the lack of trained, non-political officers, he said. A smooth-working plan should have a director appointed by either the Governor or a board composed of such members as the president of the state university, superintendent of schools, director of the Department of Welfare, and probably two laymen, he pointed out. There should be at least one officer for each judicial circuit, he added.

Joint System.

"A joint system whereby the same officers are in charge of both probation and parole is more efficient and more economical," Chappell said. "Under such a plan the officers can perform a better job of supervision."

Praising the systems now in operation in Wisconsin, New York, Indiana, Massachusetts and New Jersey, Chappell said officers should be youthful, be interested in social problems and welfare work, have a knowledge of law, and have some college work.

Founders, Patriots Will Be Honored.

Among the social affairs of the week will be the luncheon to be given today at the Capital City Club by Mrs. Howard McCall and Mrs. George Hillyer Jr., honoring the members of the Georgia Society, Daughters of Founders and Patriots.

The table will be placed in the private dining room of the club and decorations will carry out the colors of the society in the flowers and place cards.

Preceding the luncheon a historical program has been planned in celebration of the Atlanta centennial.

Beauty, According To You

(Posed by Gladys Swarthout)

A Foundation That Will Keep Your Make-up Fresh For Hours

By LILLIAN MAE.

Any woman who uses make-up—regardless of age (and don't we all?)—should use a foundation, either liquid or cream, for two reasons: First, to keep the pores clear of rouge and powder, and second, to hold the make-up fresh, for a longer period.

I am very partial to a lovely, delicately scented cream which, used sparingly, forms a thin film that is not drying, but which holds and safeguards that very necessary element to the dewy fresh complexion—moisture.

Make-up goes on very smoothly and blends perfectly, and will literally stay in "trim" for many, many hours, giving the complexion a youthful glow and a satiny finish. It can't irritate, but on the other hand, is beneficial to a sensitive skin, and will cause slight lines and roughness to disappear.

This foundation is not expensive. A jar lasts a long, long time, because only a small amount is necessary for a perfect finish and to keep powder and rouge from sinking into the pores and forming blackheads.

Perhaps you prefer a liquid foundation. Then this same product may be purchased in that form. The lovely, delicate pink powder settles, leaving clear liquid at the top of the bottle. Of course it should be shaken before being applied to the face and neck. It is cool and refreshing, and is equally good for daytime use, or for evening, producing and protecting a lovely, smooth and glamorous foundation for a lasting make-up which will remain vivid during an entire evening, or most of your busy day.

If you haven't been using a foundation, you'll want to start today, with this suggestion, and if you have, perhaps you would like to switch over to today's cream or lotion. You won't be sorry. If reading about these items has enthused you as much as it has me to write about them, you'll lose no time in phoning me at my office in The Constitution building for their names and the shops at which they may be purchased. If you do not live in Atlanta, write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pleasant Homes

By ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN.

WITH FLOWERS AND BOUGHS.

She always makes flowers and boughs help with her interior decorating.

We can't give you any formula for charm in a room . . . it's never achieved in the same way twice. Some of the most dowdy rooms have it, and some of the sleekest most expensive rooms haven't. We know a woman who does her interior decorating almost entirely with flowers and boughs, and she works wonders with autumn roses in a blue bowl or a tall vase of goldenrod. She's aware of the fact that there's always a special at the florists when her garden isn't producing, so her decorating isn't as expensive as it sounds.

Brasses Gleaming.

Another friend of ours brings out a mellowed, slightly shabby room with a collection of interesting brasses kept gleaming all the time. Others depend on beautifully patterned fabrics or on finely detailed furniture.

And ever so many of us rely mostly on color. For instance, here's a lady with a lovely living room that has canary yellow walls, a plum carpet, draperies with a pale blue pattern through them, a plum sofa, a pale blue damask wing chair and a beige lounge chair . . . there is a white fur rug in front of the fireplace and an extra chair in dull old rose. Her bedroom is attractive, too. It has gray-blue painted furniture, gray-blue carpeting, apricot draperies, a brown satin boudoir chair, flowered wallpaper.

Incidentally, speaking of color, have you a copy of our bulletin, "Recipes for New Wall Colors," which gives ingredients required for achieving the subtle decorator tones that are fashionable now? It will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to Miss Boykin, in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Lee-Roosevelt Auxiliary Meets.

Lee-Roosevelt Auxiliary No. 13, Department of Georgia, United Spanish War Veterans, met Tuesday in the Y. W. C. A., with the president, Mrs. Alice Chosewood, presiding. Report was made that Mrs. Daisy Irwin, accompanied by the president, Mrs. Chosewood, visited Ward 1-B at Hospital No. 48 and took fruit, flowers and candy to the patients. Mrs. Ola Anderson presented a program for October at the hospital. The committee on the forget-me-not drive, Miss Ruth Lindstedt, chairman, reported $14.64 collected. Thanks giving baskets will be filled and a jelly shower will be given Grady hospital, Mrs. F. W. Snell, chairman.

The auxiliary accepted an invitation from the West End unit, Legion Auxiliary, to assist with the poppy drive, Mrs. Daisy Irwin, chairman. A letter was read from Mrs. D. M. Robinson, inviting the hospital chairmen to attend a meeting Tuesday to meet Dr. E. N. Schillinger, of Hospital No. 48. Mrs. Mary Hartson was welcomed as a new member.

An invitation was extended Captain H. J. Stewart, department commander, Department of Georgia, United Spanish War Veterans, and Mrs. Stewart, department president, Auxiliaries, United Spanish War Veterans, to be guests of Lee-Roosevelt Auxiliary, for the January meeting.

Fort No. 28, Daughters of '98, National Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, met recently at the home of the color bearer, Miss Annabelle Greer. Plans were completed for the Christmas activities at Hospital No. 48 and for a benefit bingo party to be held in the home of the captain, Miss Catherine Irwin. Mrs. Daisy Irwin, past department president, was made an honorary member of the Daughters. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. B. A. Greer.

Observes Birthday.

The guests were Virginia Goodwin, Betty Jane Hancock, Jane Gann, Frances Morgan, Elma Virginia Slider and Madelyn Thompson.

Mother, watch your baby carefully for signs of unusual fretfulness, belching and the spitting up of food. Often they come about as a result of temporary constipation or meager bowel movements. Here Teethina can be relied upon as a mild and efficient laxative, as so many mothers will tell you. It is also important for you to keep Teethina in mind when your baby suffers with colic, indigestion or colds. When baby is annoyed with one of these ailments, it is most essential that he have good bowel movements because constipation greatly aggravates and increases the discomforts of such ills. Teethina may be purchased at any drug store for 30c the box of one dozen pleasant-tasting powders. TEETHINA.

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

GENTLEMEN KEEP ON PREFERRING BLONDES!

Columbia University undergraduates prefer Madeleine Carroll. Some lad with an imagination too free to be hampered by the confines of Manhattan Island, thought up this question: "With which movie star would you rather be stranded on a desert island?" Almost to a man the vote was in favor of that beauteous blonde, Madeleine Carroll. Oddly enough, they chose an ex-school marm—but who would ever think of Miss Carroll as a required course?

Perhaps the reason Miss Carroll has almost overnight become a universal favorite is that aside from her undeniable beauty, there is no mystery about her. She is utterly lacking in any superficiality. She taught school, and she likes to keep house.

Miss Carroll's beauty program is not expensive or complicated, and there is no foolishness about milk baths or wierd diets. Anyone can follow it. Swimming, relaxation, sunshine and sleep are this star's beauty aids. She believes that swimming is the best exercise any woman can take for building or slimming the figure. Sunshine, but in moderation, is her complexion balm, and she finds she must have a minimum of eight hours' sleep a night to look her best.

Because she swims so much, Miss Carroll needs no additional calisthenics or posture exercises to keep fit. Her figure is perfect. She is 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 119 pounds, and has the following measurements: Bust, 36 inches; waist, 24 inches; hips, 36 inches.

She has a healthy and hearty appetite and admits a liking for food, but never permits her weight to exceed 124 pounds. Commonsense in the selection of food enables her to control her weight without resorting to a strenuous diet.

I find that all the Hollywood beauties value relaxation. Miss Carroll sets aside half an hour each day for complete relaxation. No matter how hectic the day on the lot, you will find her resting—lying down, listening to the radio, sometimes between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The girl who has a favorite sport in which she engages regularly is much more likely to keep her figure lovely than the girl who takes occasional calisthentics. Daily relaxation is a much better wrinkle-chaser than a facial now and then. Sensible eating makes weight control fairly easy. There, in essence, you have the beauty program of a beauty.

Barbara Bell Styles

1412-B

GRACEFUL NEW SMOCK TO MAKE FOR CHRISTMAS.

Here is a suggestion for a practical and charming Christmas gift that you will want to make for your own wardrobe, as well as for several names on your gift list. The design is new and unusually flattering with a deep rounded yoke that extends well over the shoulder, giving a wide-shouldered look that makes the whole silhouette look slimmer and trimmer. The sleeves are full and gathered into a narrow cuff band. The pattern is perforated in two lengths so that you can make the smock long enough to cover your frock fully—or to just above the knee for office and easel. Choose a pretty flower print or silk shantung, and make a really lovely gift.

Even if you have never sewn before you can make this smock, confident of the results you will enjoy, for the pattern includes complete and detailed sewing instructions.

Barbara Bell pattern 1412-B is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 34 requires 4 1-2 yards of 35 or 39-inch material and 1-2 yard for contrasting collar and cuffs. Short length requires 4 1-8 yards.

Atlanta Debutantes Via Personality Route

By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON,
Eminent Astrologer and Analyst.

SARAH LEWIS.

A personality sketch of lovely Sarah Lewis, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Lewis, and secretary of the 1937-38 Debutante Club, shows she has an unusually vivid emotional nature, causing her to feel intensely everything in which she is interested. She has not only a strong sense side, but she also has a very intense side, which makes an unusually fine combination of forces.

MRS. PIERSON.

She likes excitement and frequent changes. This probably accounts for her love of travel. Her reflective ability, with good creative and planning intuition, particularly along the lines of art and music, incline her strongly in these directions.

Sarah likes people generally, both men and women, and they like her. She has a genuine love for home and country, and is particularly loyal to friends.

If you are interested in securing a personality chart of yourself, fill in the coupon below and Mrs. Pierson will be glad to send it to you.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I work in the mill and while I love my work it is a means to an end with me. I had planned to study music but at the end of grammer school I had to go to work because we were so poor that my father couldn't support my sick mother and two younger children. I remember the afternoon I quit school and said goodby to my classmates. It took all the courage I had but I was able to go through with it because I still had my books and I knew I could study them. Of course, I am happy to have helped my father. The two younger children are in school, the home is comfortable, while I still work and save each week, hoping to learn music. I want to buy an instrument but mother discourages me, saying I can never amount to anything as a musician and I should give up the dream. Oh, it is the burning ambition of my heart! No matter how much discouragement I get from others I can't give up. Please help a poor girl who has ambition but no opportunity. F. N. B.

ANSWER:

Dear child, don't give up your dream until you have exhausted every opportunity to make it come true, and then don't quit dreaming but turn your dreams into a new channel. Have you consulted with the music teacher of your local school? If not, do so, tell your story and ask for suggestions as to how you may combine classes with your job. If there is no music department in school, you should inquire about the musicians in your town. No doubt there are many who would delight to give you free lessons and count it a privilege to be able to contribute that much to a courageous young girl's future.

If you aren't an apt music pupil, perhaps you have some other talent and in any case you can get an education that will be an immeasurable pleasure to you as well as a means of larger livelihood. With youth, health, ambition and courage no door need be closed to you. For example: Only a few years ago another rare young spirit found herself faced with the same problems that you face. She worked in the mill during the day, helped support her family and spent every other waking hour reading and studying. She had the urge to write fiction and nothing could stop her. She rented and borrowed books. She learned grammar from reading good literature. She wrote letters to columnists that invited correspondence. She poured out her yearning heart to them and she received in return the best they had to give. But on and on she had to stand by the loom, working until her muscles ached and her head whirled with the machinery, working to support her loved ones.

One day she had an inspiration and she got in touch with the English teacher in a near-by college, made arrangements for some special instruction as well as some regular college classes. In a few months she was outstripping the privileged girls who sat beside her in the classroom, writing stories which they enjoyed reading, stories which soon found their way to market.

Today, only a few years later, that girl is married to a professor in a well-known institution. She presides over a candle-lit dinner table which is her writing table between meals and her stories are sold as fast as finished, sold for a good price, too. She hugged her dear dream until it came true. The loveliest part of it is that the proceeds of her dream go to buy comforts and luxuries for the family that once lived largely on the fruit of her loom.

YEAR-ROUND COVERS WORK MAGIC

YEAR-ROUND COVERS WORK MAGIC.

What luck that year-round slip covers are in style. So simple to make! Such a tonic for worn furniture, tired color schemes!

Imagine your old sofa in the stunning cover that's illustrated. It's claret-colored linen, richly patterned in cream, gold and touches of jade. For a smart finishing touch it has a flounce in plain claret linen.

You can put it together as trimly as a professional—in these three easy steps:

1. Smooth your material snugly over the upholstery—right side out for bound seams. Adjust so the design is the same on each sofa panel. Then anchor with pins every 3 inches—and cut 1 1-2 inches outside the pins.

2. Get the exact shape of the fronts of the arms with paper patterns. Pin the sections together, baste and try on.

3. Cover seams with plain claret binding. Add the box-pleated flounce. For a flounce with pleats 2 inches wide and 2-inch spaces between, measure a little more than twice around.

No danger of going wrong if you follow the step-by-step directions and diagrams in our 40-page booklet, Making Slip Covers Successfully. How to make covers for all types of chairs and sofas. Tips on trimmings, materials, styles.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, MAKING SLIP COVERS SUCCESSFULLY, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Lillian Mae Styles

EVERY GIRL WILL WANT TO MAKE THIS SIMPLE TAILORED STYLE.
Pattern 4594.

Easy to get into, easy to look at and easy on your budget is this dashing frock—so there's no reason at all for not looking your prettiest all day long! The smartly "zipped" closing is the newest thing out—and so easy to put on—though sparkling buttons would be equally chic. You're sure to love the flare the center front 'n' back seams give and the choice of long or short sleeves. Pattern 4594 is simplicity itself, for it takes no time at all to stitch it up in a bright woolen. You may omit the glove stitching, but don't you think it adds a jaunty touch?

Pattern 4594 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3 1-2 yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Look smart this winter! Send for the latest Lillian Mae Pattern Book, and plan a dashing wardrobe from its simple-to-sew patterns. Matrons—look slim in flattering styles! Misses—stitch up some of the chic party frocks, afternoon charmers, cheery "at home" models, and jaunty sportsters! Kiddies and juniors will be delighted with perky school frocks, too! Fabric and accessory tips included. Price of book 15 cents.

HEALTH TALKS

(Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

NATURAL BREATHING FOR STEADY NERVES.

Last week we quoted from Haldane's "Respiration" (Yale University Press, 1935) the following:

The common symptoms or complaints of neurasthenic persons or those suffering from fatigue or shock are analogous to the exaggerated reflex restriction in the depth of breathing and the inability to hold the breath (as long as a normal person can, say 40 seconds). All these symptoms seem to be due to what Hughlings Jackson called "release of control."

If Schafer's method of artificial respiration (the prone pressure method universally used for resuscitation of victims of submersion, electric shock, asphyxiation with smoke or gas) is applied to a normal subject who voluntarily suspends breathing, it is quite easy to maintain a rhythmic flow of six quarts, per minute more or less, of air into and out of the lungs. That is the average amount of air breathed in a minute by normal adult at rest.

But if the subject voluntarily overbreathes, that is, takes regular deep breaths, but without violent effort, at the rate of 12 a minute for a period of 1 1-2 to 2 minutes, until so much carbon dioxide is washed out that apnea ensues—a period of a minute or more when there is no desire to breathe and no need to, and then the prone pressure artificial respiration is applied, there is a board-like rigidity of the chest and belly muscles which resists the attempt to compress the thorax so completely that little or no air can be pumped in and out of the lungs—until the period of apnea passes and the natural desire and need for oxygen returns. This phenomenon is called the Hering-Breuer reflex (Hering and Breuer first noticed and described it) and it serves as a protection against over-breathing or over-ventilation.

The neurasthenic patient may feel that "he cannot expand his chest to breathe, just as if it were mechanically restricted and he develops symptoms which, with the frequent, shallow breathing, Haldane calls "asphyxial."

Right here I beg to quote from article printed in this column last year.

"When anoxia (oxygen deficit) develops in the course of an illness the intellect and the senses become dulled without the patient being subjectively aware of what has happened."

(This accounts for many inexplicable or irrational decisions made by ailing folk who are not incompetent in the ordinary lay or legal sense.)

"An individual in the earlier stages of anoxia may feel quite confident that his mind is clear and his judgment sound when in fact he is aberrant, lacks self-control and is likely to behave in an unreasonable manner. His memory is impaired, his appreciation of time is altered. Understanding is impaired more than sensation. The subject sees without knowing what he sees. . . .

"Great muscular weakness and easy fatigability are characteristic effects of anoxia, whether in illness or in mountain climbing, or in air-sickness when flying at great altitude. Nausea, vomiting, or loss of appetite occur rather where the anoxia is less gradual in onset, as in mountain climbing or flying . . . rapid, shallow breathing is typical of anoxemia. . . ."

In "How to Breathe" (booklet in Little Lessons series, by William Brady, M. D., D. P. M.) you will find detailed instructions for the belly breathing exercise which I recommend for all who have an oxygen deficit. It takes many months of practice to unlearn unnatural breathing and to recover the habit of natural breathing.

Best Cough Remedy Is Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get the quickest relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never use any other kind of cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really better medicine than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it has no equal. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Buyers were in the stock market for utility, copper and steel shares today and leading issues finished fractions to 2 points higher.

What was interpreted as a more conciliatory attitude of the SEC toward utility companies stimulated considerable interest in this group and possibility of modification of the capital gains and undistributed profits imposts, at the coming session of congress, attracted day-to-day traders to the general list.

Despite improved sentiment, transactions reached only 1,048,-770 shares, compared with yesterday's 1,377,456. The Associated Press composite average of 60 stocks advanced .9 of a point to 46.0.

Announcement by the treasury more than $10,000,000 in gold would be shipped to France arrested the recent mark-up of foreign currencies and the dollar improved generally in exchange transactions. Final quotation for sterling was $4.99 7-8, off 2 1-2 cents, while the French franc ended at 3.39 3-4 cents, down .01 3-4 of a cent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Railroad issues led the bond market to higher ground today.

Federal loans closed with gains predominating. Advances ranged up to 5-32d of a point, while a few scattered losers were off around 6-32ds of a point.

Lower-priced rails thrust forward fractions to around 2 points. Among the wider gainers were Erie 5s at 44, up 2; Baltimore & Ohio 4 1-2s at 38 7-8, up 1 3-8; Missouri Pacific 5s at 20 1-4, up 1 3-4; Southern Railway 4s at 51 1-2, up 1, Southern Pacific 4 1-2s at 63, up 1 1-2.

Foreign dollar loans were marked by a brisk run-up of 2 3-4 points in Cuba 5 1-2s to 65 1-2. German and Japanese obligations worked up fractions to around a point while Italian issues slumped. South American bonds improved with few exceptions.

Turnover for all bonds totaled $7,500,000 face amount compared with $7,600,000 Monday.

The Associated Press averages for 10 utilities advance .2 of a point to 92.6. Rail and industrial averages dipped slightly.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Enlarged export purchases of North American wheat totaling upwards of 1,250,000 bushels did much today to hoist Chicago wheat values 2 1-4 cents maximum.

Unconfirmed estimates that recent frost damage in Argentina had caused the loss of 29,000,000 bushels of wheat served also as a stimulating factor. So, to, did reports that critical moisture conditions southwest were affecting adversely next year's domestic crop prospects.

Besides, talk was current that a decline of 47 cents a bushel by Chicago May wheat in a little over three months had certainly discounted a tremendous amount of what might have been bearish in the market situation, to say nothing of the hundred and one things which were altogether imaginary.

CURB ISSUES GAIN IN LIGHT DEALINGS

Market Moves Out of Rut Recording Advances Around 3 Points.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The curb market moved out of a rut today to record gains of fractions to around 3 points in light dealings.

Montgomery Ward "A" climbed 2 1-2 to 132 1-2 and Aluminum Company was up 3 1-2 to 88 1-2. Despite late selling most gains were sustained.

Adding a point or more were American Gas & Electric at 25 5-8, Creole Pertoleum 24 3-4, Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. 56, Northern States Power "A," Pan-American Airways 19, Pittsburgh Plate Glass 87 1-2 and Sherwin Williams at 86 5-8.

Weather Outlook For Cotton States

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We look for a trading market until some indication is at hand as to what steps congress and the administration may take to combat the depression.

BEER & CO.—Failure of volume to expand was about the only disappointing feature Tuesday. Wednesday's pre-holiday markets probably will show a continuing uptrend.

THOMSON & McKINNON—The fact remains that whatever the reason, sentiment in the share market nevertheless seems a trifle better, despite an absence of really reassuring news either from Washington or from business centers.

FENNER & BEANE—A further technical rally would be the normal sequence with the market perhaps awaiting a more definitely favorable turn in the news for its realization.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—The market appears to have a somewhat more hopeful tone. Possible developments at Washington are still being closely watched and the near-term trend of securities prices will probably be largely determined by developments at the capital.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We look for trading market to continue with preference to purchases on recessions.

BEER & CO.—We feel that cotton is an attractive purchase around current levels.

THOMSON & McKINNON—With most commodity markets oversold, there is likelihood of a corrective rally at any time. We consider cotton in a position to respond.

FENNER & BEANS—We look for hedged to dry up on breaks and believe that recessions will offer good buying opportunities.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Market seems likely to remain in a trading range with purchase on recessions affording opportunity for quick trading profits.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—Those who hold cotton outside of the loan are satisfied to carry cotton, awaiting further developments. We expect continuation of a narrow market.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Further recoveries might easily take place, though sustained strength can only come about if we manage to do a larger export business.

BEER & CO.—The demand from abroad is limited as Europe is buying only from hand to mouth and without a broader trade we do not believe that we can expect far-reaching gains or anything in the way of sustained strength.

THOMSON & McKINNON—A further recovery seems likely on technical conditions alone and we feel that the improved action will tend to increase domestic and export buying of cash wheat, which in turn will strengthen values.

FENNER & BEANE—The market appears to be recovering its stance after a long period of declining markets and barring adverse outside developments, look for good buying on fair reactions.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Improved export demand and more favorable tenor of outside markets and Washington news aided values.

COTTONSEED OIL OPINION.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—Trade observers are of the opinion that with consumption keeping up at a good rate, we will not have any material decline from these prices. However, they are expecting a trading market until such time as the government's plan on cottonseed oil is announced.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP) The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was 7.86 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 market days was 8.03 cents a pound.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling, f. o. b., 8.55.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Moderate demand held cotton steady today. Final prices were 3 to 5 points net higher.

In the face of the estimates for a record cotton crop of 18,243,000 bales, offerings were again small and prices rallied during the forenoon to 11 to 14 points net higher. The demand came partly from foreign sources. Reactions of 6 to 10 points from the best in the late trading reflected realizing.

Exports today 70,208, making a total of 1,955,507 for the season thus far. Port receipts 52,647; U. S. port stocks 3,263,005.

Except for the initial decline, attributed to a little southern, New Orleans and wire house selling, the undertone was generally steady. Buyers were cautious in view of large potential world supplies, now estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service at 51,313,000 bales of all growths against last year's previous record total of 44,349,000.

COTTON RECOVERS FROM EARLY DROP

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Cotton recovered from an early decline today but failed to hold the full rally. The market closed steady at net advances of 3 to 6 points.

Opening trades were a shade lower under profit-taking and hedging. After the start some second-day selling on the large official crop estimate was encountered, but offerings were absorbed towards the end of the first hour and prices started on the upgrade.

Port receipts 52,647; for week 148,581; for season 4,343,230; exports 70,208; last week 140,226; for season 1,959,423; port stocks 3,257,429. Stocks on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 164,063; last year 134,457. Spot sales at southern markets 27,212; last year 37,295.

A. M. E. CONFERENCE IS CONVEND HERE

Bishop W. A. Fountain Will Speak Today.

The Atlanta conference, sixth of a series of eight annual conferences of the A. M. E. church in Georgia, opened yesterday at the St. Paul church on McDaniel street. Rev. G. B. Hannan is the pastor, Rev. J. F. Moses, entertaining presiding elder.

The associate presiding elders are Drs. W. Boyd Lawrence, B. V. Thornton, R. E. Roman and E. J. Odom, all of whom assembled in an effort to round up their budgets to be submitted to the conference. Bishop W. A. Fountain, who heads the A. M. E. church in Georgia, will preside over deliberations.

This is regarded as the most important of the eight conferences in the state. It is also important from an education standpoint with Morris Brown College located here. Big Bethel church, perhaps the largest church edifice in the connection and among the largest in the negro race, is also in the district.

Among the pastors who will be called upon to report are Drs. D. T. Babcock, pastor of Big Bethel; W. R. Wilkes, of Allen Temple; A. H. Jones, D. R. Fobbs, J. R. Coan, E. C. Mitchell; Revs. H. M. Parker, G. B. Hannan, S. H. Rome, H. C. Carswell, A. L. Brewster, E. H. Warley, H. E. Thornton, C. C. Ealey, C. H. S. Hunter, B. C. Carswell, E. F. Ridley, F. L. Riley, E. Muckles, J. P. Woodard, J. H. Carey, F. W. Bagby, A. A. Hightower, W. P. Foley, J. P. Philmore, A. U. Freeman, J. S. Spivey, L. L. Fluellen, J. W. Flemister, J. S. McKellar, W. J. Daniels, G. F. Patterson, J. LaPrade, Lewis Smith, J. W. Langston, H. C. Terrell and others.

It is predicted that this conference will lead the entire state in conference funds. Several general officers are expected to attend. The keynote sermon will be delivered this morning by Rev. C. C. Eley, of Monticello, followed by the annual address by the bishop.

CLUB LAUNCHES CLEAN-UP DRIVE

Beautification of Roosevelt Highway Primary Goal.

Beautification of the Roosevelt highway entering the south side of the city will be a primary objective of the Civic Club of West End as it inaugurates the city-wide clean-up campaign by Atlanta clubwomen, it was announced yesterday.

Persons living along the route will be asked to pay special attention to removal of trash and garbage and unsightly objects, so that visitors will receive a good impression of the city, it was said.

The civic club is launching its drive to clean up sanitary district No. 1, which is bounded on the north by Hunter street, on the west and southwest by the Louisville & Nashville railroad, and on the east and southeast by the Georgia railroad.

A committee, headed by Mrs. E. Turner and Mrs. W. I. Latta, is urging housewives and merchants in the district to aid in the campaign. Others on the committee are Mrs. C. C. Guinn, Mrs. A. P. Bradley, Mrs. W. F. Converse and Mrs. D. O. Coghill.

DEATH OF ROY LEWIS LAID TO HEART DISEASE

Roy Lewis, who died "from organic heart disease," according to a corner's jury yesterday, was buried with graveside services in East View cemetery yesterday afternoon.

MAIL CLERK JAILED IN EMBEZZLEMENT

Charged With Taking Two Special Delivery Letters Containing $17.

Charged with embezzling two special delivery letters containing $17, Jerome Stewart, railway mail clerk, was held for federal grand jury investigation on $2,000 bond yesterday after preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith.

Stewart was arrested by postal inspectors Monday. He admitted taking the two letters while on his run from Nashville, Tenn., to Atlanta, and burning the envelopes in the car. One of the letters contained $9 in bills, while the other contained $8. Only $8 of the money had been recovered, postal inspectors said.

N. T. Hood, of Stockbridge, was placed under $300 bond by Commissioner Griffith on charge of violating internal revenue laws.

PAPAL DELEGATE

Fascist Ship Carries Cardinal to Tripoli Congress.

SYRACUSE, Sicily, Nov. 9.—(AP) A Fascist warship flying both the Italian and Papal flags steamed out of this harbor today carrying Cardinal Dolci, Papal delegate to the Tripoli eucharistic congress.

Shore batteries saluted the cruiser da Barbianco, said by the Vatican semi-official news service to be the first Italian warship to leave Italy with a pontifical mission aboard.

Bishop Facchinetti, apostolic vicar to Tripoli, said the aims of the congress included invocation of divine aid for Fascism's fight against Communism.

PAY-HOUR BILL FAVORED.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 9. (AP)—Governor Bibb Graves and Senator Dixie Graves declared themselves today as favorable to "the principles" of federal wage-hour regulations.

TARZAN UNDER FIRE No. 21

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The wind shrieked. The tops of the trees bent over as though pressed down by a mighty hand, then whipped back. Lightning flashed—jagged, blinding lightning—and then thunder roared. With it came the rain, not in drops, but in great sheets and gusts.

Torn branches hurtled through the air. Giant trees crashed to earth, cutting wide swaths of destruction. It seemed impossible that any living thing could escape the titanic fury of the storm. The two boys trembled, expecting every moment to be their last.

After an hour the hurricane abated, but the rain still beat down. Dick looked below. Jad-bal-ja, the lion, had disappeared. Evidently he had sought shelter under some rocky ledge. "Now's our chance to get away from him," the boy urged. "Let's go back."

Doc agreed, and they started off through the trees. In so doing they made two mistakes. First, they were traveling in the wrong direction. Second, they were eluding Jad-bal-ja, who would have protected them from the frightful perils they were soon to face.

Madman Poking Gun at Strangers Slain by Officers

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A man who authorities said walked several blocks in a midtown business district brandishing a gun was killed in a gun fight with two policemen today.

Desk Lieutenant Frydrick said a pistol permit found in the man's pocket bore the name of Freeman Martin, 48, of Wallington.

Patrolman Wright and another policeman first saw the man in a store from which police had received a call to investigate a suspicious customer. Wright said the man appeared to be mentally ill.

As they attempted to lead him from the store, Wright said, he pulled a gun and threatened to shoot.

Then the man walked away, shoving his gun at passers-by but not firing, Wright said.

Police meanwhile received numerous calls, which were relayed by radio to Lieutenant Scanlon and Detective Dewey in a squad car. They met the man after he had gone several blocks.

"He pointed his revolver at me and fired three shots," Scanlon said. "Detective Dewey and I blazed away at him."

TAX REFUND SOUGHT.

HUGE RADIUM BOMB WILL FIGHT CANCER

4-Point Program Mapped by National Council in War on Disease.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The National Advisory Cancer Council outlined tentative arrangements today for making the largest radium bomb in the world for research into the cause and cure of cancer.

(Medical men explained that a radium bomb is a large mass of radium, surrounded by lead, which is used to bombard a cancer.)

Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the Public Health Service and ex-officio chairman of the cancer council, said that construction of the bomb will be studied by a special subcommittee.

After an all-day session the council members declared they had outlined a four-point program on which to work in the immediate future.

It calls for development of the new radium tool; a survey of cancer patients and treatment facilities in each state; making of grants-in-aid to research workers throughout the country; and study of new physical tools, such as the cyclotron developed by Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, of the University of California, for producing artificial radium.

FIGHT ON MEASLES GAINING HEADWAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Announcement that the hitherto unseen virus which causes measles, annual scourge of nearly 1,000,000 American children, has a visible stage in the throat was made today by Teachers' College.

"The discovery," said the announcement, "will enable doctors to detect and quarantine measles two or three days earlier than usual and lessen proportionately the chance of infecting others.

"It opens the way to control by vaccines, since researchists will now be able to see and study the virus bodies, something that has been impossible heretofore."

HARD-BOILED NAVY SADDENS MUSICIAN

He Can't Duck Seeing World Despite Stage Career.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Blond Alice Alexander, at 23, show business' latest "angel," ordered the curtain up tonight on the world premier of a musical comedy, "Right This Way," with "score by Bradford Greene."

And Mr. Greene, whom the Navy Department classifies as a seaman, second class, didn't know whether to smile or to cry.

For Mr. Greene was contemplating the possibility that he was a successful composer. At the same time the navy was insistent that he come back to Washington November 23 to serve a matter of five years remaining of an enlistment he undertook when things were not looking so bright.

The navy denied him a special discharge but granted the pianist a 90-day leave which terminates week after next when the show is scheduled to be in Detroit.

PENSION CHANGES OPPOSED BY F. D. R.

President Against 'Pay-as-You-Go' at Present.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared today that it would be dangerous to put the old-age pension system on a "pay-as-you-go" basis immediately because the government would go broke without an adequate reserve to pay benefits in future years.

Thus he replied, at a press conference, to critics who contend that the present reserve fund will amount to $47,000,000,000 by 1980 and that it is unnecessary for workers and employers to contribute such a sum in taxes.

The reserve fund is a problem, the President conceded, but he said he thought contributions to it should be maintained at the present level for the time being. The fund may not reach the proportions predicted, he continued, and there is no reason why congress cannot work out a permanent social security law by revising the present act as experience shows the need.

QUEEN MARIE BETTER, PREMIER ANNOUNCES

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 9. (AP)—A turn for the better was reported tonight in the condition of Dowager Queen Marie who is suffering from an internal hemorrhage.

Premier Tatarescu said the Queen's condition was better than this morning, but that concern still was felt.

STATE DEATHS

W. G. CHEATHAM.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—W. G. Cheatham, 85, died at his home here yesterday and services were held today at Hull Baptist church, Dr. J. C. Wilkinson officiating. Mr. Cheatham, a native of Madison county, lived in Athens 29 years. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. S. L. Butler, of Anderson, S. C., and Mrs. C. A. Carson, Miss Mattie Cheatham, and Miss Lizzie Cheatham, of Athens; a son, J. A. Cheatham, of Whitmire, S. C., and a brother, Charlie Cheatham, of Hull.

Governor Denies Political Motive In Call to Commissioners on Taxes

'I Will Talk to Conference in My Official Capacity, Not as a Candidate,' Rivers Answers Association After Officials Comment.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Governor Rivers denied today partisan political motives are behind the meeting he has called with all county commissioners of the state to discuss tax revision problems.

His statement followed a joint comment in Atlanta by two high officials of the Georgia Association of County Commissioners that "the Governor is reported to have decided to 'go over the heads' of the association's (legislative) committee, the implication being that the meeting he has called will be of a political nature."

"I will talk to the commissioners who can attend the conference as Governor, not as a candidate," Rivers declared.

"If partisanship enters the meeting, it will come from other sources than myself."

Program Presented.

The legislative committee to which President Frank M. Kimble and C. A. Matthews, chairman of the association's board of managers, referred in their joint statement, met with Rivers last week to present a four-point program the commissioners are sponsoring.

The committee objected to a proposal for the state to take over county roads—and state money given counties for road work. This subject was the chief one which prompted Matthews to conduct a series of district meetings of commissioners at which the association's program was evolved.

Rivers disclaimed the proposal as an administration move and confined his conference with the committee to plans for homestead exemptions and intangible taxes, the basis, he said, of the administration's tax revision program.

The meeting with all county commissioners—already scheduled when the Governor conferred with the committee—will be held in Atlanta Friday.

In their joint statement, Matthews and Kimble said the association "never has fostered any assemblage called into being for the purpose of dividing its members upon partisan political lines," and added:

"In our judgment, if its officers should encourage any such occasion, they would be abandoning the non-partisan objectives of our organization . . . and condemning its fate to the caprices of personal politics."

Larger Incomes Seen.

Speaking at a Georgia Better Business Association meeting, the chief executive outlined his administration program and plans, and predicted middle and lower income brackets in Georgia will be doubled in less than 10 years "if the present forward program is financed through a revised tax system.

"I don't mean to say you can get a tax system that will please everyone, but it is certain the burden on real estate must be lightened," Rivers said, referring to the special tax revision session of the legislature scheduled this month.

"The flow of money is in transactions rather than in real estate, and we must tap the source of that flow if we are to support our program."

(The Governor expressed the same views in an address tonight, opening the third district convention of the Georgia Education Association in Americus. He denounced "reactionary people who value the dollar higher than the welfare of the children of Georgia.")

HARRIS RAPS ENEMIES OF ADMINISTRATION

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Assailing organizations which he said "won't co-operate with the state administration in trying to improve Georgia," House Speaker Roy V. Harris today said the Rivers administration intends to write a tax program satisfactory to the entire state.

The Rivers lieutenant was called on for a special address at the Georgia Bankers' Association district meeting here. He praised the bankers' association for its co-operative attitude with the administration.

Discussing a meeting of the Georgia Mercantile Association in Atlanta last week, he said, however, "it was impossible for anyone to be heard unless it was known in advance he was going to attack the entire program of the present administration."

Must Raise Taxes.

Judge Orville A. Park, another speaker, said in Georgia intangibles are taxed at a rate of $35 a thousand, and the next highest rate of a near-by state is in Kentucky, where the rate is $5 a thousand.

"A man is just a fool to stay in Georgia and pay tax on these intangibles when he can take up residence elsewhere and still spend all the time he wants in Georgia without paying," he said.

Merchants Take Stand.

Merchants from Athens and surrounding towns went on record at a meeting here last night opposing any additional taxes in Georgia.

The merchants petitioned the legislature "to adopt prinicples of economy in state government and appliy this saving to any expansion in the state's program."

F. D. R. OFFERS AID TO UTILITIES--'BUT'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt offered the public utilities industry the cooperation of his administration today—on one condition.

The utilities, he said, must radically alter their methods of determining the value of their properties. Rates are based on these valuations, and they, in turn, have been based, generally, upon the original or reproduction cost of the properties involved.

Instead, Mr. Roosevelt asked that the utilities return to what he termed the old principles of the common law in determining valuations. He did not go into the point, but his words recalled a government move last week to make so-called "prudent investment" a controlling factor in valuation.

Just what favors the utilities might expect, if they complied, was not made clear. Those familiar with the situation, however, were distinctly of the impression that the concessions might involve government help in carrying out long-delayed construction programs.

BALKS AT GUN THREAT, VICTIM CRITALLY SHOT

Bill Webb, of 636 Chestnut street, shot in the chest yesterday when he failed to obey the command of a negro holdup man, fought for his life at Grady hospital last night. Attendants said his condition was critical.

Webb was returning home when a negro stopped him near Pelham and Travis streets, held a gun on him and ordered him to raise his hands. The man refused and the negro shot him. No valuable were missing, friends said.

College To Go To Prison For Young Life Termer

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A college education within prison walls appeared in prospect today for Herbert Niccols, 18, who became a life-term convict at the age of 12.

In January, Niccols will complete a high school course given him under supervision of Walla Walla public schools and the prison librarian. Warden James A. McCauley said today arrangements probably would be made to bring college studies to the youth who went to prison for killing a sheriff during a burglary.

"Herbert is beginning to be somewhat of a problem because we don't want to risk destroying all we have built up by allowing him to associate indiscriminately with other convicts," the warden said. He has a private cell, a private exercise court and eats with prison officers.

NEW COMMANDER OF FLEET CHOSEN

Swanson Announces Assignments for High Ranking Officers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Secretary Swanson named Admiral Claude C. Bloach Commander-in-chief of the United States fleet tonight.

He will succeed Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, who was given command of the 12th naval district at San Francisco. The transfer becomes effective about February 1.

Other assignments revealed by Swanson, to take effect about February 1 unless otherwise noted, were:

Rear Admiral Clarence S. Kempff to be temporary commander of the 12th district, effective November 15. He will relieve Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith, who retires January 1.

AUTOCRACY THREAT SEEN FOR AMERICA

Wider Distribution of Property Held Solution.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Herberg Agar, associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, told the Catholic rural life conference today the United States does not have a true democracy and must be careful lest it drift into a complete autocracy.

How the nation can attain the ideal of a true democracy is an uncertain question, he said.

Agar, whose "The People's Choice" won the Pulitzer prize in history in 1934, threw out several queries in the course of his address on "Some Questions Before Our Democracy." To them, he said, he had no "pat" answers.

He empasized, however, that a wider distribution of property was essential to practical democracy.

INSANITY PLEA MADE IN EAST POINT KILLING

Hearing on an insanity plea for T. C. Morris, Hapeville, charged with the murder of his son-in-law, E. E. Fields, in East Point, will be resumed this morning.

Morris was scheduled to go on trial for murder yesterday, but his attorney, H. A. Allen, entered a special plea of insanity. Morris is charged with cutting Fields to death several months ago

DEADLOCK BLOCKS LABOR PEACE TALKS

Conferences Adjourn for 8 Days After Stalemate on Jurisdiction.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(UP) Peace conferences between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization were adjourned for eight days late today after the warring factions deadlocked on the issue of which industries each should dominate.

The stalemate came when it appeared the rival groups were about to agree upon a division of industries in which each would have organizational jurisdiction.

LEWIS "LOST" STRIKE, DAVEY DECLARES

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Governor Davey, of Ohio, said tonight that John L. Lewis, chairman of the CIO, "lost" the Ohio steel strike last spring "because . . . when he could no longer make use of violence, intimidation and bloodshed, his only weapons for victory were gone."

"I have been accused," the Governor told a meeting of the Ohio Society of New York, "of breaking the steel strike. This is not true. Nor did the companies win the strike. John L. Lewis lost that strike. . . ."

LABOR TROUBLE DISTURBS U. S. LABOR DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Labor trouble has broken out in the Labor Department. The dispute began when Secretary Perkins refused to change the department's system of settling employe grievances at the demand of the United Federal Workers of America, a CIO union.

Now officials of that union accuse Miss Perkins of promoting a "company union" and say her labor policy is out of line with the Wagner labor disputes act.

11,000 AUTO STRIKERS TO RETURN TO JOBS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Richard Frankensteen, vice president of the United Automobile Workers, a CIO affiliate, announced today that 11,000 striking employes of the Hudson Motor Car Company would return to work tomorrow.

The strike started this morning. Union officials said it resulted from the lay-off of certain union members in what they said was violation of an agreement.

JAILED MAN SUES IN DEATH OF SON

$100,000 Sought in Miami Prison Charges.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Vance W. Harrell, whose imprisonment while his three-year-old son died of diphtheria last week has brought several investigations into police methods, today claimed $100,000 damages of the Red Cross drug store.

Only notice was filed in circuit court but Attorney Frank Clark said the store would be charged with faulty handling of a mix-up over a 30-cent lunch check which led to Harrell's detention without charge for 19 hours as city detectives traced the title of his automobile.

Attorney Clark said a suit for $100,000 also would be filed against the city. Harrell claims police refused to heed his story of the child requiring medicine for which he had left a prescription at another drug store to be filled while he had lunch.

PLUNGES TO DEATH

1 Killed, 14 Hurt as Bridge Collapses.

MILLTOWN, Ind., Nov. 9.—(AP) Charles Minton, 35, of Georgetown, was killed and 14 others were injured today when one span of a concrete bridge under construction on state highway No. 64 a mile west of here collapsed.

The injured were rushed to a New Albany hospital. Three of them were in serious condition. Minton was the foreman.

The structure, a $100,000 state highway project, bridged the Southern Railway tracks. The floor of the last span constructed gave in and the men fell approximately 40 feet.

CLOUDY AND COOLER FORECAST FOR TODAY

Cloudy weather and cooler temperatures will head Atlanta's weather menu today, George W. Mindling, weatherman, predicted yesterday.

"Skies will be overcast and occasional showers are probable, the weatherman said. Temperatures are expected to range between 50 and 62 degrees. Yesterday's high was 68, while the low was 56 degrees.

JAILED AFTER CHASE, MAN GETS 24 MONTHS

Fred Daniels, arrested October 17 after an automobile chase through city streets and several times around the Henry W. Grady monument on Marietta street, was given sentences totaling 24 months on the chain gang yesterday by Judge Jesse M. Wood in Fulton criminal court. Daniels was convicted of two whisky possession charges, speeding, driving without lights, and operating an automobile under false registration.

WARTIME STRENGTH FOR NAVY IS URGED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(UP) Maintenance of navy personnel at full wartime strength was urged today by Admiral Adolphus Andrews, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, in his annual report to Secretary of Navy Claude A. Swanson.

Andrews said naval appropriations enabled manning of vessels on an average of about 86.1 per cent of their full enlisted complement.

LONG CONTROVERSY OVER SEWER COSTS VIRTUALLY SETTLED

County Agrees To Pay One-Third Share of Expense to City.

A two-year controversy between the city and county over Fulton's participation in the cost of the metropolitan sewer system has been virtually settled, officials announced yesterday.

The county has agreed to share one-third the cost of operating and maintaining all disposal plants and sewer lines outside the city, and is to have the right to fix and collect fees for tapping the lines beyond the city limits.

It was estimated the county will pay the city more than $50,000 a year under this agreement.

Approval Given.

Three county commissioners, George F. Longino, chairman of the county public works committee; Chairman J. A. Ragsdale and Ed L. Almand, have approved the arrangement, and the sewer committee of city council voted yesterday to recommend its ratification to council Monday.

The board of county commissioners is expected to vote formal approval of the agreement at a special meeting today.

The agreement is virtually the same as the proposal submitted by the city after Atlanta had turned down Fulton's offer to pay one-third the operating cost of disposal plants until the completion of the Clayton plant and then to operate the Clayton plant as its part.

End of the controversy will remove difficulties experienced by residents outside the city, who have not been allowed to tap the city's lines, pending an agreement.

The county has agreed, under the present plans, to begin paying one-third of the cost of operating plants and sewers outside the city in January. Money will be paid monthly to the city, which will direct all engineering, operations and repairs.

Atlanta is making efforts also to arrange an agreement with DeKalb county to pay approximately 15 per cent of the costs, since a large area in DeKalb county is served by the city's metropolitan system.

ASPIRONAL IS QUICK RELIEF FOR A COLD

Makes You Comfortable With Marvelous Speed

How do you treat a cold? Does it take you hours or minutes to get relief from the discomforts? Aspironal is quick! Warms you up like a hot toddy. Banishes that chilly, creepy, achey, mean feeling. Quickly checks the running at nose and eyes. Makes you comfortable.

Later, Aspironal moves the bowels gently but thoroughly, helping Nature to throw off the cold.

You must like Aspironal far better, or the trial shall cost you nothing. Get a bottle today on our money-back offer. Splendid for children as well as adults. Only half a dollar for the family-size bottle. At your druggist's.—(adv.)

What Do You Know of Napoleon? Enter Contest on His Life, Loves

$50 Cash, 100 Tickets to 'Conquest' Are Offered for Best Essays.

"Conquest," the M.-G.-M. picture starring Greta Garbo as Marie Walewska and Charles Boyer as Napoleon, opens tomorrow at Loew's Grand. Cash prizes amounting to $50 and 100 guest tickets to "Conquest" are being given by The Constitution and Loew's Grand in an essay contest.

Napoleon Bonaprate was a great emperor, a great warrior, and a great lover, but with all his conquests of empire and hearts, he was a lonely, unhappy and dissatisfied man. What do you know about the "Life and Loves of Napoleon?"

The Constitution and Loew's Grand, sponsoring an essay contest on the subject, offer cash prizes of $15, $12.50, $10, $7.50 and $5, and, in addition, 100 guest tickets to "Conquest."

To be eligible for the contest, all essays must be 200 words or less, written on only one side of paper, and must be either on the desk of the Conquest Contest Editor of The Constitution, or postmarked, not later than midnight Thursday.

CHURCH LIBRARY HERE IS PRAISED

By DR. LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Congratulating the Druid Hills Baptist church upon having established and installed the first modern library among the churches of the Southern Baptist convention, Dr. T. L. Holcomb, of Nashville, Tenn., executive secretary of the Baptist Sunday School Board for the south, in an address in connection with the dedication of the new library at the Druid Hills church, said last night:

"A book is like a mountain. It challenges you to climb—to keep on climbing to come to its peak. These hundreds of excellent books which you are here making available to the inquiring minds of the youth of this church and city will prove the inspiration to many a life and enrich the sum total of civilization for many years to come."

Dr. P. E. Burroughs, educational secretary of the Sunday school board of the Southern Baptist convention, will be the speaker at Druid Hills at 8 o'clock tonight. He will talk about the influence of books in the moulding of character. Dr. John L. Hill will be the speaker tomorrow and Friday night.

The school for church librarians continues throughout the week at Druid Hills, classes meeting at 7 o'clock each night under the direction of Mrs. C. B. Althoff, of Louisville, Ky., and Miss Marie Estes, of Nashville, Tenn. The new library at Druid Hills was given by Miss Virginia Durham as a memorial to her mother, Mrs. Jessie McWhorter Durham.

F. D. R. ASKS REPLIES TO JOBLESS CENSUS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt appealed to all unemployed and "partly unemployed" today to answer by November 20 the questions to be asked them on census cards distributed by postmen.

His plea was preliminary to a radio talk Sunday evening on the jobless count.

"A highly important task which confronts our nation today," the President said, "is finding jobs for willing workers who, through no fault of their own, are unable to find work for which they are suited.

"The problem is both social and economic. Our mental well being requires the removal of fear from the minds of those below the border line of necessity. Our economic well being calls for the stimulus that wages, paid in exchange for productive labor, will add to our national income.

"To put all willing workers to work calls for long-term planning. Longterm planning calls for facts

"We shall learn the facts of unemployment if all our people—employed as well as unemployed—co-operate in the unemployment census to be inaugurated on Tuesday, when the postman will distribute blanks to every home."
